Wagner Move on Fay Is In Court at Monticello

Justice Bookstein Will Hear Arguments Today on Fay Parole Petitioners

Albany, Oct. 27 (AP)—Although branding it a political move, the state agreed today to an immediate court test of Robert F. Wagner Jr.'s action to force the release of the names of all persons who sought parole for labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay.

By stipulation of opposing counsel, an order directing the State Parole Board to show cause why the list should not be made public was set down for argument at 3 p. m. today in Monticello before Justice Isadore Bookstein of State Supreme Court.

Wagner, Manhattan borough president and Democratic candidate for mayor of New York, has asserted that the list includes many prominent persons, including a figure high in the Eisenhower Administration and close to Gov. Dewey. The alleged figure has been tabbed "Mr. X." Dewey and his counsel, George Shapiro, have denied the list includes such a person.

Solicitor General Wendell P. Brown, in the state's answer to be presented at Monticello, asserts the list does not contain any person answering Wagner's description. Brown also maintains that Wagner's move is political.

Fay is serving 7½ to 15 years for shaking down contractors on construction projects. Fay formerly was vice president of the AFL International Operating Engineers Union.

Order Is Obtained

Through a Brooklyn woman taxpayer, the Wagner forces obtained the show cause order last week in a New York city court.

The order was made returnable before Justice Harry Schirick of State Supreme Court in Albany today.

Solicitor General Wendell P. Brown of the state attorney general's office said the order was null and void because Schirick was not holding a special term of court here today.

Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein said, however, that he was willing to argue the issue of whether the state could be forced to give out the list. The state contends that such lists are and should remain private.

The stipulation to argue the matter before Justice Bookstein was entered into this morning by Brown and Henry Epstein, Wagner's lawyer.

The two lawyers appeared before Justice Schirick, who said there was "some question of jurisdiction."

Schirick is presiding over a regular Supreme Court term here.

Golstein said his solicitor general would insist on immediate action "before a judge empowered under court rules to hear such special term matters."

Goldstein's statement came after Epstein said he would come here today to ask Brown to agree to have a Supreme Court justice hear the argument.

May Seek Special Term

Failing agreement, Epstein, said

New Drive Is Planned By Hospital

Trustees Authorize Plan to Get Cash Needed to Go Ahead With Construction

The Board of Trustees of Kingston Hospital last night authorized its executive committee to act in launching a campaign to raise a needed $250,000 for construction of an addition.

The executive group will appoint a special committee to take charge of the fund-raising drive.

The 1950 campaign goal was $850,000. Of this, $600,000 was raised and the rest must be obtained before the building project can start.

Bids Top Estimates

Bids on the addition, to date, have exceeded estimates, and it was announced at the meeting that they were to be rejected and the plans revised on the basis of retaining "all the essential features of the original program," while keeping within the limits of the fund.

W. B. Sheldon, hospital administrator, explaining the growth of the hospital's activities said that 25 per cent more patients were cared for in 1952 than in 1947, and during these five years 10 per cent more patient days were given, and 30 per cent more operations performed. He cited a 91 per cent growth in the X-ray department, and said the average patient stayed one day less in 1952 than in 1947.

Fiscal Year Changed

The fiscal year date of the hospital was changed to Sept. 30, so that the association could have a report of activities at its annual January meeting, and the public relations committee was authorized to print an annual report.

Miss Almena A. Porter, director of nursing, reported 18 students admitted in September. They are to serve a six-months' pre-clinical period, and this time is given to theoretical study of nursing arts and sciences. On Sept. 24, she said, 14 students graduated, and 11 of these were added to the hospital's general staff.

Efficiency Awards

Awards were made for efficiency and achievement, she said, and were "greatly appreciated," and the class expressed appreciation to the Alumnae Association for the dance it sponsored and to the auxiliary for its dinner party.

Allan Hanstein, vice-president, conducted the meeting, and other trustees present were: J. H. Tremper, secretary; A. R. Atkins, treasurer; N. LeVan Haver, L. R. Lefever, S. D. Hiltebrant, the Rev. F. Gollnick; George E. Yerry, Jr., R. Kalish, G. V. D. Hutton, C. S. Treadwell and Walter Williams.

Not at Address

Dominick LaTour, of 42 Post street, said today he no longer lives in the house at 18 Chapel street, mentioned in an account yesterday of an electric wire fire.

Convicted Revenue Agent Kills Self

Walden, Oct. 27 (AP)—Maurice F. O'Brien, former head of the Internal Revenue office at Troy, shot himself to death yesterday while free in bail awaiting sentence as a tax fixer.

O'Brien, 56, left the home of his wife's sister, Mrs. Raymond Halsey, yesterday morning supposedly for New York city to discuss an appeal with his lawyer, Moses Polakoff. The lawyer never saw him.

O'Brien drove back to the Halsey home shortly after noon. Sitting in his parked car, he placed a new .22 caliber rifle to his head and pulled the trigger. Mrs. O'Brien witnessed the suicide as she happened to glance out a window. O'Brien died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital at Newburgh.

Was Convicted Friday

O'Brien, who was free in $5,000 bail pending sentencing next Thursday, was convicted last Friday in Federal Court in New York city along with three former assistants. The four were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government.

The government accused the four of participating in a ring which got about $35,000 from taxpayers in the Albany area to fix tax returns. A fifth former Troy agent was found innocent.

The convictions carried the possible maximum penalty of three years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

O'Brien formerly lived in Albany.

Operators' Answer Due at Midnight In Racing Probe

One Corporation Does Not Have Questionnaire; Another Says Reply Voluminous

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The state commission investigating harness race tracks readied its facilities today to handle a last-minute flood of filled-in financial questionnaires from track operators.

Midnight tonight is the deadline for returns of the forms sent out by the commission to track licensees requesting information on all aspects of their operations.

The commission notified the track operators that failure to answer the questions satisfactorily by the deadline would subject them to penalties by the State Harness Racing Commission.

An example of the flood of statistics expected was a statement by the Old Country Trotting Assn., owner of Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, that it would need a truck to deliver its completed questionnaire. Association Secretary Alvin L. Weil said answers to the questions required 2,500 to 4,000 pages of accompanying data.

None Is Received

The Algam Corp., which owns the physical property at Yonkers Raceway at suburban Yonkers, did not receive a questionnaire.

George Trosk, member and counsel of the probe commission, explained yesterday that the questionnaires were limited to track licensees. He said Algam might be investigated by the commission later.

The Yonkers Trotting Assn. is the licensee of the Yonkers Raceway. Algam, in addition to owning the plant, participates in the track's labor agreements and collects 60 per cent of its profits.

The questionnaires were directed to the eight associations licensed to operate seven tracks in the state.

Rudolph Halley said last night that if it were up to him he would shut down Yonkers Raseway until all alleged irregularities there had been corrected and a complete investigation had been made by the state commission.

Speaks on TV

Halley, city council president and Liberal Party candidate for mayor, made the statement on a WPIX television program, "The Citizens' Committee for Halley Presents Mr. Halley to the Press."

Answering newsmen's questions, Halley said: "I think there are a lot of rackets in the trotting tracks. It is a disgrace."

Halley said he believes the state commission should investigate conditions at the very bottom of the Yonkers and Roosevelt tracks, but added: "Apparently they do not intend to do so."

Halley said:

"I have information that makes me think the stockholders in the Roosevelt Raceway, if made public, would be as interesting as those in the Yonkers trotting track and the Algam Corp.

"I think we've seen enough of this to be convinced that the Republican Party does not represent good government."

Grand Jury Probe Ordered

A Westchester county grand jury meanwhile was ordered by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to reopen investigation into the unsolved 1952 murder of John Acropolis, who headed an AFL Teamster local which sought to unionize Yonkers Raceway employes.

The Acropolis local lost out to an AFL Building Service Employes local headed by Thomas Lewis, who was slain last August.

Dewey ordered the grand jury action on the basis of information supplied by Arthur L. Reuter, Democratic candidate for Westchester county judge.

Reuter said a county jail inmate had information apparently bearing on the case. He said the inmate reported that he heard one thug tell another in a Broadway nightclub on the day of the Acropolis murder that "I took care of that Johnny contract. That Greek won't bother us anymore."

The inmate reportedly had revealed the names of the two thugs to authorities.

Cattlemen Have Little Hope Left

New Trouble Is Ahead for Benson From GOP on His Plan to Reorganize

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP) — A "caravan" of 350 cattlemen declared today the Eisenhower administration's program for dealing with a "desperate situation" in the livestock industry has failed.

The cattlemen urgently petitioned President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson for immediate government guarantees on livestock prices.

These sentiments were voiced in a resolution prepared by the caravan for presentation in a second meeting with Benson later today (11 a. m., EST).

The cattlemen, from 30 states, held a mass meeting with the agriculture secretary yesterday and outlined in general their plea for relief for the ailing livestock industry.

Would Yield to Pleas

But Benson's reaction left little hope in the caravan that he would yield to their pleas for prompt action to put a government floor under livestock prices.

Looking beyond their meetings with Benson, however, the cattlemen foresaw a heated fight over the issue when Congress reconvenes in January and possibly growing support for their stand.

Many congressmen, facing an election in 1954, already have taken note of signs of general dissatisfaction among farmers.

About 350 cattlemen from 30 states, declaring they face disaster from falling cattle prices, converged on Washington by bus and car with western style hats and a few cowboy yells.

At a mass meeting with Benson yesterday, they talked calmly but plainly of severe economic losses and predicted depression and distress in the cattle lands unless further action is taken promptly.

Benson told them his mind is open—but he also voiced misgivings about the workability of a cattle price support program.

Go to Another Auditorium

The cattlemen promptly went back to another auditorium and unanimously passed a resolution urging government supports at least as high as 90 per cent of parity, a calculated price said by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their production and living costs.

A committee of cattlemen planned to present the resolution —along with arguments behind it —at a second meeting with Benson and his assistants today.

James G. Patton, president of the Farmers Union, which sponsored the caravan, said in an interview Benson's talk yesterday "sounded to me like his mind is pretty well closed."

Bue he said the fact that the cattlemen can present their facts directly to Benson will be helpful.

Longshoremen Will Begin Negotiations With Shippers

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Assn. is resuming wage contract negotiations with shippers tomorrow, but a rival AFL union says such talks are illegal.

The ILA, recently ousted from the AFL, announced the talks at a rousing Madison Square Garden rally last night.

Moments later the AFL, which has chartered a new ILA-AFL, said such talks would violate the Taft-Hartley Labor Act while a National Labor Relations Board election between the two unions is pending. Longshoremen would be asked in such a poll to pick the union they want to represent them.

A meeting is scheduled today at the NLRB regional offices for discussion of election procedures. Representatives of the two unions and employers are to attend.

The ILA's old contract with the New York Shipping Assn., representing 170 shipping and stevedoring firms, expired last month. A five-day strike followed. An 80-day no-strike injunction, obtained by the government under the Taft-Hartley law, restrains the two unions from causing a renewal of the walkout and calls on all sides to resume efforts to reach a settlement.

Expiration of the contract came with the ILA-AFL making its first attempts to win control of the 60,000 longshoremen involved between Maine and Virginia. The AFL in August ousted the ILA for failure to purge itself of racketeering elements.

Last night's ILA announcement of wage talks was the first since the strike started Oct. 1. ILA Vice President Patrick J. Connolly gave the news to an estimated 13,000 longshoremen and their wives.

An employer spokesman said the ILA requested the talks and that the Shipping Association could not decline since the Taft-Hartley court order required it to try to solve the wage dispute.

The strike started as the ILA and the employers were deadlocked over an ILA demand for a 13 cents an hour package wage-welfare increase. The shippers offered 8½ cents to the longshoremen who now average a basic $2.27. These wage talks did not involve the AFL union.

Before heading to the Madison Square Garden rally, the loyal ILA dockworkers paraded along the waterfront with banners and torches. They were joined by longshoremen from New Jersey. At the Garden there were delegations from Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other ports.

ILA President Joseph P. Ryan, who had been confined to his home with illness, spoke briefly. He said he came against doctor's orders. The 68-year-old Ryan, who is under indictment on charges of grand larceny of union funds, said:

"You have given me everything I have and I think you will admit I've done my best to carry out the job you gave me."

Connolly, who made the main address, attacked the recently enacted New York-New Jersey laws for regulating the waterfront. He said Govs. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey had foisted upon labor "state hiring halls which will be run by politicians."

Another speaker was Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastiasia, ILA chief in Brooklyn, who drew a great shout when he fervently declared: "I stay with you till I die."

The banners carried by the dock workers denounced AFL leaders and Dewey. One said: "Dewey—there is no place in the U.S.A. for a dictator."

ILA officials said the parade and rally were "rank-and-file inspired."

Dulles Has No Word on Israel Aid

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles declined to say today how or on what terms United States economic aid to Israel would be restored.

An almost complete ban on such aid was imposed after the Jewish nation defied a United Nations ruling that it stop building a hydro-electric project along the Jordan river frontier with Syria.

Dulles, asked at his news conference about conditions under which it would be resumed, declining to reply directly on the ground that no definite allocation of economic aid to Israel had been made from funds voted this year by Congress.

He said he did not want to discuss the Israel situation because it was being debated before the UN Security Council.

The secretary said Congress voted a lump sum of money for economic aid to the Near East-Africa area and that no actual payments from this fund had yet been made.

To Maintain Cut-off

Before Dulles met with newsmen he was reported determined to maintain the cut-off of funds until Israel abides by the UN decision.

He was reported to have the support of President Eisenhower in that stand, in the face of mounting public pressure for reconsideration.

A senator and a congressman added their support yesterday to the efforts of hundreds of American Jews who have written the State Department urging it at least to modify the embargo on American aid money.

Dulles ordered a halt in remitting some 60 million dollars in American aid scheduled to go to Israel for development purposes late last month. He disclosed the decision last week, saying he made it because Israel was defying a UN Commission order that it stop trying to divert Jordan river waters.

Confers With Dulles

Harold Riegelman, Republican candidate for mayor in New York, conferred for 90 minutes yesterday with Dulles to discuss the aid ban and the Arab-Israeli clashes of recent weeks which have threatened Middle East peace.

Afterward he said Dulles assured him the American financial ban would be lifted once the dispute was settled.

Sen. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Rep. Javits (R, Lib-N.Y.) came to the State Department later to review the same problem. Accompanying them were seven Americans prominent in Jewish organizations.

Schoonover Found Dead

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 27 (AP) —William G. Schoonover, 49, Yonkers, N. Y., realtor and owner of the Whitman Mills property here, was found dead today outside the building. Dr. William Rosen, medical examiner, withheld a verdict on cause of death pending a chemical analysis. Police said there were no marks of external violence. Schoonover's automobile was parked near the spot where Christopher Siefert, a mill maintenance man, found the body about 7 a. m. The car motor was running.

Editorial Says Wicks' Case One-Sided, Mystery Deepens

Situation, Glens Falls Paper Says, Not Worth 'Political Earthquake' Shaking GOP

The following editorial relative to the Dewey-Wicks dispute over Acting Lieutenant Governor Arthur H. Wicks visits to Joseph S. Fay, convicted extortionist, at Sing Sing prison appeared October 20 in the Glens Falls Post Star.

Wicks, of Kingston, has maintained he visited Fay in the interest of labor peace on vital projects in his, the 34th Senatorial district. Last week he made a radio broadcast and a telecast and explained the nature of his visits.

The editorial:

The Mystery Deepens

Acting Lieutenant Governor Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston has rendered to the people his explanation of why he paid several visits to Joseph Fay, convicted labor leader-extortionist, at Sing Sing Prison. If this explanation can be accepted at face value, it is difficult to see what the uproar is all about.

In a prefatory comment Senator Wicks observed that a conscientious legislator must often ask himself what an honest man should do in the face of the bewildering demands that life presents. The question he had to face was whether an honest man in public office could treat with a convict for the benefit of what he conceived to be the public welfare.

Senator Wicks was not at the time of the visits the acting lieutenant governor. He was Senate majority leader but he was also the elected representative from a state senatorial district in which a number of important public works projects were under construction and were threatened by work stoppages due to jurisdictional labor controversies. Senator Wicks said that despite Fay's imprisonment he was still the key mediator in disputes affecting these public works and that he, Wicks, was urged by other parties to the disputes to seek Fay's assistance. This statement was supported by the state council of the Carpenter's Union which met last week in Glens Falls.

Thus Wicks found himself pressed by some constituents to do what he could to avert labor disorders affecting both the people of New York City, the people of the state generally, and the people of his own district. As a state senator he evidently felt that he had a right and an obligation to respond. At any rate he went to see Fay—openly, he said—and

Village Has No Water in Reservoir

Wartime Invasion Pipe Is Put to Use; Given Civil Defense Aid for Scheme

"Invasion" pipe designed for wartime is being put to humanitarian use at the village of Marlborough, where the town's water supply had been drained almost to the last drop as a result of the drouth.

The pipe, a specially made light weight eight-inch steel pipe in 20-foot lengths fitted for quick coupling under emergency conditions, was obtained from Civil Defense stockpiles through combined efforts of the Kingston-Ulster Civil Defense organizations, town and county officers, and health department officials.

It is being laid this morning from the Hudson river to the reservoir and will be used to pump river water into the reservoir which had reached the critically low stage.

Severe Restrictions Used

The town water district was forced to put into effect severe restrictions on the use of water, and about 10 days ago the reservoir storage shrank to practically nothing.

Temporary means were rigged up to pump water from the river and streams, but facilities were unable to gain sufficient headway to get any surplus. Water storage today was better than 10 days ago, but was still insufficient to meet any unusual or emergency situations.

Fred S. Fowler, the town supervisor; Cluett Schantz, Ulster county sheriff; Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of the county health department, and others explored various solutions and concluded that the quickly-laid "invasion" pipe was needed.

Hanstein Is Contacted

Col. Allan L. Hanstein, director of Kingston-Ulster Civil Defense, was contacted, and contacts were made for the release of approximately 2,000 feet of the pipe that had been stockpiled for Civil Defense use in emergencies.

The pipe, stored at Waterford, was shipped to Marlborough by Needes' Express, arriving late last night. It was unloaded after dark, and this morning local help was being rounded up for the job of laying the pile line from the river to the standby tank near the reservoir. An uphill lay, pumps will be used on each end to draw the water.

The job is under the supervision of Edinger in order to assure a safe water supply.

Suit Is Started

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—A Bronx couple whose young son was killed by six bull terriers July 1, 1947 began suit yesterday in the Bronx seeking a total of $125,000 from the city of New York and the owner of the dogs. The plaintiffs are Sol Balaban, a waiter, and his wife, Bertha, of 2480 Bronxwood avenue, the Bronx, whose son, Stanley, 11 years old, was attacked by the dogs. The dogs were owned by Sven O. Sandgren, now of 41 Tier street, City Island, the Bronx, who formerly occupied a houseboat with the animals at Pugsley creek, in the East Bronx.

Fog Closes Turnpike

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 27 (AP) — The New Jersey Turnpike was shutdown from Elizabeth to its northern terminus today by heavy morning fog but later was reopened to traffic. Turnpike police put the superhighway under a 35-mile an-hour speed limit instead of the normal 60 for several hours during the morning because of the poor visibility.

Arrives With Escort

Bangkok, Oct. 27 (AP)—Vice President Nixon arrived today with a Thai fighter plane escort for a 2½-day stopover on his tour of the Far East. Nixon was scheduled to meet with Premier P. Pibulsonggram, today and attend a luncheon tomorrow with the king and queen of Thailand.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Oct. 23: Cash balance $5,000,152,789.37; budget receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $16,045,793,155.94; budget expenditures for fiscal year $22,637,355,064.21; budget deficit $6,591,561,910.27; total debt $273,170,525,373.53; gold assets $22,077,225,968.47.

No Pact Reached In Milk Strike

Ranger Says All Fires Are Banned

Order Closing Woodlands Affects All Property Outside of City

Outdoor fires of all types, including the burning of leaves on one's own property outside city limits, are forbidden under the law during any time the woods are officially closed by order of the governor, Forest Ranger Aaron Van De Bogart of Wittenberg said today.

The ranger noted that the regulations relative to leave fires are apparently little understood and there have been numerous violations.

Violation to Burn Leaves

He pointed out that the governor's ban, which is still in effect, makes it a violation to burn refuse or leaves, even in one's own yard, except in cities or incorporated villages where permits to burn are issued. First offense carries a possible $10 fine.

Van De Bogart explained that leave fires are often misleading to fire watchers in the towers.

Once the governor's ban is lifted—as it is expected to be if rain as forecasted for tonight and tomorrow arrives—then residents of unincorporated villages and in rural areas may burn leaves. No permit is required.

NY Officials Strive Desperately to Get Formula for Peace

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — New York city officials strove desperately today to effect an agreement in a strike that has cut the flow of fresh milk for 12 million persons in the metropolitan area.

City prodding kept negotiations going early today in the wage-hour dispute between representatives of 200 companies and the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters, the union of the 13,000 striking drivers and plant workers.

Talks have been going on since 11:45 a. m. (EST) yesterday at the Roosevelt Hotel with federal, state and city mediators present. However, at 2 a. m. today the various parties left the hotel without indicating whether the talks were continuing elsewhere. The sessions had been held at three different hotels in as many days.

Just before last midnight, negotiators for both sides said they would remain in session—separately or together — throughout the night. They said, however, there would be no announcement before a formal meeting scheduled at 10 a. m.

Deliveries Cut Off

Deliveries to homes and retail outlets were cut off by the strike, which started Sunday afternoon. Consumers lined up yesterday outside dairy plants for rationed milk or turned to such substitutes as evaporated and powdered milk.

A little fresh milk was still left at some distrubting plants. About 3,500 lined up at one plant in Brooklyn. Each was allowed to buy one quart. In the Bronx another line of 2,500, including women pushing baby carriages, bought up to four quarts each from supplies laid in before the strike began Sunday.

The union kept milk supplies going to hospitals, schools and some other institutions. Milk tank trucks were diverted from the city to processing plants, for cheese and other dairy foods.

The companies involved in the dispute are in New York city, Long Island, Westchester and Rockland counties in New York, New Jersey north of Trenton and part of Fairfield county, Conn.

However, workers in the Fairfield area have not walked out because of no-strike clauses in contracts otherwise the same as in New York.

Rhinebeck Man Is Fined $25 For Disorderly Conduct

Richard Mikulka, 25, Rhinebeck resident had a narrow escape from serious injury early Sunday morning at Tropical Inn, Port Ewen, when John Pulvirenti the proprietor fired a shot at Mikluka who it is alleged was attempting to break into the Inn, paid a fine of $25 yesterday afternoon after pleading guilty to disorderly conduct.

Mikulka was arrested earlier in the day on his discharge from Kingston Hospital where he had been treated for superficial wounds of the chest and arm.

Under a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Francis E. Palen, Jr., of Port Ewen, Mikulka was charged with attempted burglarly. At the arrangement Frank Tucker, Rhinebeck attorney, appeared for Mikulka. Abram F. Molyneaux appeared for the district attorney's office.

Mikulka entered a plea of guilty to the disorderly conduct charge, a lesser charge than was originally brought. That plea was accepted and he was fined $25, which he paid.

The facts surrounding the shooting probably will be presented to the grand jury now in session.

According to an investigation by Under Sheriff Clayton S. Vredenburg and County Investigator Arthur Brown, Mikulka attempted to enter the Tropical Inn after it had been closed early Sunday morning. When deputies arrived he disappeared in the brush near the Inn and later returned and attempted to get in the door, Pulvirenti, who had secured his shotgun following the first attempt at entrance, fied a shot through the door. Most of the charge was deflected by the door rail but several shots struck Mikulka glancing blows and he suffered superficial wounds in the left chest over the heart.

No charge has been lodged against Pulvirenti but the entire matter probably will be submitted to the grand jury by District Attorney Howard C. St. John.

Wagner Move on Fay Is In Court at Monticello

Justice Bookstein Will Hear Arguments Today on Fay Parole Petitioners

Albany, Oct. 27 (AP)—Although branding it a political move, the state agreed today to an immediate court test of Robert F. Wagner Jr.'s action to force the release of the names of all persons who sought parole for labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay.

By stipulation of opposing counsel, an order directing the State Parole Board to show cause why the list should not be made public was set down for argument at 3 p. m. today in Monticello before Justice Isadore Bookstein of State Supreme Court.

Wagner, Manhattan borough president and Democratic candidate for mayor of New York, has asserted that the list includes many prominent persons, including a figure high in the Eisenhower Administration and close to Gov. Dewey. The alleged figure has been tabbed "Mr. X." Dewey and his counsel, George Shapiro, have denied the list includes such a person.

Solicitor General Wendell P. Brown, in the state's answer to be presented at Monticello, asserts the list does not contain any person answering Wagner's description. Brown also maintains that Wagner's move is political.

Fay is serving 7½ to 15 years for shaking down contractors on construction projects. Fay formerly was vice president of the AFL International Operating Engineers Union.

Order Is Obtained

Through a Brooklyn woman taxpayer, the Wagner forces obtained the show cause order last week in a New York city court.

The order was made returnable before Justice Harry Schirick of State Supreme Court in Albany today.

Solicitor General Wendell P. Brown of the state attorney general's office said the order was null and void because Schirick was not holding a special term of court here today.

Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein said, however, that he was willing to argue the issue of whether the state could be forced to give out the list. The state contends that such lists are and should remain private.

The stipulation to argue the matter before Justice Bookstein was entered into this morning by Brown and Henry Epstein, Wagner's lawyer.

The two lawyers appeared before Justice Schirick, who said there was "some question of jurisdiction."

Schirick is presiding over a regular Supreme Court term here.

Golstein said his solicitor general would insist on immediate action "before a judge empowered under court rules to hear such special term matters."

Goldstein's statement came after Epstein said he would come here today to ask Brown to agree to have a Supreme Court justice hear the argument.

May Seek Special Term

Failing agreement, Epstein, said

New Drive Is Planned By Hospital

Trustees Authorize Plan to Get Cash Needed to Go Ahead With Construction

The Board of Trustees of Kingston Hospital last night authorized its executive committee to act in launching a campaign to raise a needed $250,000 for construction of an addition.

The executive group will appoint a special committee to take charge of the fund-raising drive.

The 1950 campaign goal was $850,000. Of this, $600,000 was raised and the rest must be obtained before the building project can start.

Bids Top Estimates

Bids on the addition, to date, have exceeded estimates, and it was announced at the meeting that they were to be rejected and the plans revised on the basis of retaining "all the essential features of the original program," while keeping within the limits of the fund.

W. B. Sheldon, hospital administrator, explaining the growth of the hospital's activities said that 25 per cent more patients were cared for in 1952 than in 1947, and during these five years 10 per cent more patient days were given, and 30 per cent more operations performed. He cited a 91 per cent growth in the X-ray department, and said the average patient stayed one day less in 1952 than in 1947.

Fiscal Year Changed

The fiscal year date of the hospital was changed to Sept. 30, so that the association could have a report of activities at its annual January meeting, and the public relations committee was authorized to print an annual report.

Miss Almena A. Porter, director of nursing, reported 18 students admitted in September. They are to serve a six-months' pre-clinical period, and this time is given to theoretical study of nursing arts and sciences. On Sept. 24, she said, 14 students graduated, and 11 of these were added to the hospital's general staff.

Efficiency Awards

Awards were made for efficiency and achievement, she said, and were "greatly appreciated," and the class expressed appreciation to the Alumnae Association for the dance it sponsored and to the auxiliary for its dinner party.

Allan Hanstein, vice-president, conducted the meeting, and other trustees present were: J. H. Tremper, secretary; A. R. Atkins, treasurer; N. LeVan Haver, L. R. Lefever, S. D. Hiltebrant, the Rev. F. Gollnick; George E. Yerry, Jr., R. Kalish, G. V. D. Hutton, C. S. Treadwell and Walter Williams.

Not at Address

Dominick LaTour, of 42 Post street, said today he no longer lives in the house at 18 Chapel street, mentioned in an account yesterday of an electric wire fire.

Convicted Revenue Agent Kills Self

Walden, Oct. 27 (AP)—Maurice F. O'Brien, former head of the Internal Revenue office at Troy, shot himself to death yesterday while free in bail awaiting sentence as a tax fixer.

O'Brien, 56, left the home of his wife's sister, Mrs. Raymond Halsey, yesterday morning supposedly for New York city to discuss an appeal with his lawyer, Moses Polakoff. The lawyer never saw him.

O'Brien drove back to the Halsey home shortly after noon. Sitting in his parked car, he placed a new .22 caliber rifle to his head and pulled the trigger. Mrs. O'Brien witnessed the suicide as she happened to glance out a window. O'Brien died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital at Newburgh.

Was Convicted Friday

O'Brien, who was free in $5,000 bail pending sentencing next Thursday, was convicted last Friday in Federal Court in New York city along with three former assistants. The four were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government.

The government accused the four of participating in a ring which got about $35,000 from taxpayers in the Albany area to fix tax returns. A fifth former Troy agent was found innocent.

The convictions carried the possible maximum penalty of three years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

O'Brien formerly lived in Albany.

Operators' Answer Due at Midnight In Racing Probe

One Corporation Does Not Have Questionnaire; Another Says Reply Voluminous

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The state commission investigating harness race tracks readied its facilities today to handle a last-minute flood of filled-in financial questionnaires from track operators.

Midnight tonight is the deadline for returns of the forms sent out by the commission to track licensees requesting information on all aspects of their operations.

The commission notified the track operators that failure to answer the questions satisfactorily by the deadline would subject them to penalties by the State Harness Racing Commission.

An example of the flood of statistics expected was a statement by the Old Country Trotting Assn., owner of Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, that it would need a truck to deliver its completed questionnaire. Association Secretary Alvin L. Weil said answers to the questions required 2,500 to 4,000 pages of accompanying data.

None Is Received

The Algam Corp., which owns the physical property at Yonkers Raceway at suburban Yonkers, did not receive a questionnaire.

George Trosk, member and counsel of the probe commission, explained yesterday that the questionnaires were limited to track licensees. He said Algam might be investigated by the commission later.

The Yonkers Trotting Assn. is the licensee of the Yonkers Raceway. Algam, in addition to owning the plant, participates in the track's labor agreements and collects 60 per cent of its profits.

The questionnaires were directed to the eight associations licensed to operate seven tracks in the state.

Rudolph Halley said last night that if it were up to him he would shut down Yonkers Raseway until all alleged irregularities there had been corrected and a complete investigation had been made by the state commission.

Speaks on TV

Halley, city council president and Liberal Party candidate for mayor, made the statement on a WPIX television program, "The Citizens' Committee for Halley Presents Mr. Halley to the Press."

Answering newsmen's questions, Halley said: "I think there are a lot of rackets in the trotting tracks. It is a disgrace."

Halley said he believes the state commission should investigate conditions at the very bottom of the Yonkers and Roosevelt tracks, but added: "Apparently they do not intend to do so."

Halley said:

"I have information that makes me think the stockholders in the Roosevelt Raceway, if made public, would be as interesting as those in the Yonkers trotting track and the Algam Corp.

"I think we've seen enough of this to be convinced that the Republican Party does not represent good government."

Grand Jury Probe Ordered

A Westchester county grand jury meanwhile was ordered by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to reopen investigation into the unsolved 1952 murder of John Acropolis, who headed an AFL Teamster local which sought to unionize Yonkers Raceway employes.

The Acropolis local lost out to an AFL Building Service Employes local headed by Thomas Lewis, who was slain last August.

Dewey ordered the grand jury action on the basis of information supplied by Arthur L. Reuter, Democratic candidate for Westchester county judge.

Reuter said a county jail inmate had information apparently bearing on the case. He said the inmate reported that he heard one thug tell another in a Broadway nightclub on the day of the Acropolis murder that "I took care of that Johnny contract. That Greek won't bother us anymore."

The inmate reportedly had revealed the names of the two thugs to authorities.

Cattlemen Have Little Hope Left

New Trouble Is Ahead for Benson From GOP on His Plan to Reorganize

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP) — A "caravan" of 350 cattlemen declared today the Eisenhower administration's program for dealing with a "desperate situation" in the livestock industry has failed.

The cattlemen urgently petitioned President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson for immediate government guarantees on livestock prices.

These sentiments were voiced in a resolution prepared by the caravan for presentation in a second meeting with Benson later today (11 a. m., EST).

The cattlemen, from 30 states, held a mass meeting with the agriculture secretary yesterday and outlined in general their plea for relief for the ailing livestock industry.

Would Yield to Pleas

But Benson's reaction left little hope in the caravan that he would yield to their pleas for prompt action to put a government floor under livestock prices.

Looking beyond their meetings with Benson, however, the cattlemen foresaw a heated fight over the issue when Congress reconvenes in January and possibly growing support for their stand.

Many congressmen, facing an election in 1954, already have taken note of signs of general dissatisfaction among farmers.

About 350 cattlemen from 30 states, declaring they face disaster from falling cattle prices, converged on Washington by bus and car with western style hats and a few cowboy yells.

At a mass meeting with Benson yesterday, they talked calmly but plainly of severe economic losses and predicted depression and distress in the cattle lands unless further action is taken promptly.

Benson told them his mind is open—but he also voiced misgivings about the workability of a cattle price support program.

Go to Another Auditorium

The cattlemen promptly went back to another auditorium and unanimously passed a resolution urging government supports at least as high as 90 per cent of parity, a calculated price said by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their production and living costs.

A committee of cattlemen planned to present the resolution —along with arguments behind it —at a second meeting with Benson and his assistants today.

James G. Patton, president of the Farmers Union, which sponsored the caravan, said in an interview Benson's talk yesterday "sounded to me like his mind is pretty well closed."

Bue he said the fact that the cattlemen can present their facts directly to Benson will be helpful.

Longshoremen Will Begin Negotiations With Shippers

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Assn. is resuming wage contract negotiations with shippers tomorrow, but a rival AFL union says such talks are illegal.

The ILA, recently ousted from the AFL, announced the talks at a rousing Madison Square Garden rally last night.

Moments later the AFL, which has chartered a new ILA-AFL, said such talks would violate the Taft-Hartley Labor Act while a National Labor Relations Board election between the two unions is pending. Longshoremen would be asked in such a poll to pick the union they want to represent them.

A meeting is scheduled today at the NLRB regional offices for discussion of election procedures. Representatives of the two unions and employers are to attend.

The ILA's old contract with the New York Shipping Assn., representing 170 shipping and stevedoring firms, expired last month. A five-day strike followed. An 80-day no-strike injunction, obtained by the government under the Taft-Hartley law, restrains the two unions from causing a renewal of the walkout and calls on all sides to resume efforts to reach a settlement.

Expiration of the contract came with the ILA-AFL making its first attempts to win control of the 60,000 longshoremen involved between Maine and Virginia. The AFL in August ousted the ILA for failure to purge itself of racketeering elements.

Last night's ILA announcement of wage talks was the first since the strike started Oct. 1. ILA Vice President Patrick J. Connolly gave the news to an estimated 13,000 longshoremen and their wives.

An employer spokesman said the ILA requested the talks and that the Shipping Association could not decline since the Taft-Hartley court order required it to try to solve the wage dispute.

The strike started as the ILA and the employers were deadlocked over an ILA demand for a 13 cents an hour package wage-welfare increase. The shippers offered 8½ cents to the longshoremen who now average a basic $2.27. These wage talks did not involve the AFL union.

Before heading to the Madison Square Garden rally, the loyal ILA dockworkers paraded along the waterfront with banners and torches. They were joined by longshoremen from New Jersey. At the Garden there were delegations from Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other ports.

ILA President Joseph P. Ryan, who had been confined to his home with illness, spoke briefly. He said he came against doctor's orders. The 68-year-old Ryan, who is under indictment on charges of grand larceny of union funds, said:

"You have given me everything I have and I think you will admit I've done my best to carry out the job you gave me."

Connolly, who made the main address, attacked the recently enacted New York-New Jersey laws for regulating the waterfront. He said Govs. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey had foisted upon labor "state hiring halls which will be run by politicians."

Another speaker was Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastiasia, ILA chief in Brooklyn, who drew a great shout when he fervently declared: "I stay with you till I die."

The banners carried by the dock workers denounced AFL leaders and Dewey. One said: "Dewey—there is no place in the U.S.A. for a dictator."

ILA officials said the parade and rally were "rank-and-file inspired."

Marlborough Pumps From Hudson River

Dulles Has No Word on Israel Aid

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles declined to say today how or on what terms United States economic aid to Israel would be restored.

An almost complete ban on such aid was imposed after the Jewish nation defied a United Nations ruling that it stop building a hydro-electric project along the Jordan river frontier with Syria.

Dulles, asked at his news conference about conditions under which it would be resumed, declining to reply directly on the ground that no definite allocation of economic aid to Israel had been made from funds voted this year by Congress.

He said he did not want to discuss the Israel situation because it was being debated before the UN Security Council.

The secretary said Congress voted a lump sum of money for economic aid to the Near East-Africa area and that no actual payments from this fund had yet been made.

To Maintain Cut-off

Before Dulles met with newsmen he was reported determined to maintain the cut-off of funds until Israel abides by the UN decision.

He was reported to have the support of President Eisenhower in that stand, in the face of mounting public pressure for reconsideration.

A senator and a congressman added their support yesterday to the efforts of hundreds of American Jews who have written the State Department urging it at least to modify the embargo on American aid money.

Dulles ordered a halt in remitting some 60 million dollars in American aid scheduled to go to Israel for development purposes late last month. He disclosed the decision last week, saying he made it because Israel was defying a UN Commission order that it stop trying to divert Jordan river waters.

Confers With Dulles

Harold Riegelman, Republican candidate for mayor in New York, conferred for 90 minutes yesterday with Dulles to discuss the aid ban and the Arab-Israeli clashes of recent weeks which have threatened Middle East peace.

Afterward he said Dulles assured him the American financial ban would be lifted once the dispute was settled.

Sen. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Rep. Javits (R, Lib-N.Y.) came to the State Department later to review the same problem. Accompanying them were seven Americans prominent in Jewish organizations.

Schoonover Found Dead

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 27 (AP) —William G. Schoonover, 49, Yonkers, N. Y., realtor and owner of the Whitman Mills property here, was found dead today outside the building. Dr. William Rosen, medical examiner, withheld a verdict on cause of death pending a chemical analysis. Police said there were no marks of external violence. Schoonover's automobile was parked near the spot where Christopher Siefert, a mill maintenace man, found the body about 7 a. m. The car motor was running.

Editorial Says Wicks' Case One-Sided, Mystery Deepens

Situation, Glens Falls Paper Says, Not Worth 'Political Earthquake' Shaking GOP

The following editorial relative to the Dewey-Wicks dispute over Acting Lieutenant Governor Arthur H. Wicks visits to Joseph S. Fay, convicted extortionist, at Sing Sing prison appeared October 20 in the Glens Falls Post Star.

Wicks, of Kingston, has maintained he visited Fay in the interest of labor peace on vital projects in his, the 34th Senatorial district. Last week he made a radio broadcast and a telecast and explained the nature of his visits.

The editorial:

The Mystery Deepens

Acting Lieutenant Governor Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston has rendered to the people his explanation of why he paid several visits to Joseph Fay, convicted labor leader-extortionist, at Sing Sing Prison. If this explanation can be accepted at face value, it is difficult to see what the uproar is all about.

In a prefatory comment Senator Wicks observed that a conscientious legislator must often ask himself what an honest man should do in the face of the bewildering demands that life presents. The question he had to face was whether an honest man in public office could treat with a convict for the benefit of what he conceived to be the public welfare.

Senator Wicks was not at the time of the visits the acting lieutenant governor. He was Senate majority leader but he was also the elected representative from a state senatorial district in which a number of important public works projects were under construction and were threatened by work stoppages due to jurisdictional labor controversies. Senator Wicks said that despite Fay's imprisonment he was still the key mediator in disputes affecting these public works and that he, Wicks, was urged by other parties to the disputes to seek Fay's assistance. This statement was supported by the state council of the Carpenter's Union which met last week in Glens Falls.

Thus, Wicks found himself pressed by some constituents to do what he could to avert labor disorders affecting both the people of New York City, the people of the state generally, and the people of his own district. As a state senator he evidently felt that he had a right and an obligation to respond. At any rate he went to see Fay—openly, he said—and

Village Has No Water in Reservoir

Wartime Invasion Pipe Is Put to Use; Given Civil Defense Aid for Scheme

"Invasion" pipe designed for wartime is being put to humanitarian use at the village of Marlborough, where the town's water supply had been drained almost to the last drop as a result of the drouth.

The pipe, a specially made light weight eight-inch steel pipe in 20-foot lengths fitted for quick coupling under emergency conditions, was obtained from Civil Defense stockpiles through combined efforts of the Kingston-Ulster Civil Defense organizations, town and county officers, and health department officials.

It is being laid this morning from the Hudson river to the reservoir and will be used to pump river water into the reservoir which had reached the critically low stage.

Severe Restrictions Used

The town water district was forced to put into effect severe restrictions on the use of water, and about 10 days ago the reservoir storage shrank to practically nothing.

Temporary means were rigged up to pump water from the river and streams, but facilities were unable to gain sufficient headway to get any surplus. Water storage today was better than 10 days ago, but was still insufficient to meet any unusual or emergency situations.

Fred S. Fowler, the town supervisor; Cluett Schantz, Ulster county sheriff; Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of the county health department, and others explored various solutions and concluded that the quickly-laid "invasion" pipe was needed.

Hanstein Is Contacted

Col. Allan L. Hanstein, director of Kingston-Ulster Civil Defense, was contacted, and contacts were made for the release of approximately 2,000 feet of the pipe that had been stockpiled for Civil Defense use in emergencies.

The pipe, stored at Waterford, was shipped to Marlborough by Needes' Express, arriving late last night. It was unloaded after dark, and this morning local help was being rounded up for the job of laying the pile line from the river to the standby tank near the reservoir. An uphill lay, pumps will be used on each end to draw the water.

The job is under the supervision of Edinger in order to assure a safe water supply.

Sandgren, now of 41 Tier street, City Island, the Bronx, who formerly occupied a houseboat with the animals at Pugsley creek, in the East Bronx.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 27 (AP) — The New Jersey Turnpike was shutdown from Elizabeth to its northern terminus today by heavy morning fog but later was reopened to traffic. No Pact Reached In Milk Strike

Ranger Says All Fires Are Banned

Order Closing Woodlands Affects All Property Outside of City

Outdoor fires of all types, including the burning of leaves on one's own property outside city limits, are forbidden under the law during any time the woods are officially closed by order of the governor, Forest Ranger Aaron Van De Bogart of Wittenberg said today.

The ranger noted that the regulations relative to leave fires are apparently little understood and there have been numerous violations.

Violation to Burn Leaves

He pointed out that the governor's ban, which is still in effect, makes it a violation to burn refuse or leaves, even in one's own yard, except in cities or incorporated villages where permits to burn are issued. First offense carries a possible $10 fine.

Van De Bogart explained that leave fires are often misleading to fire watchers in the towers.

Once the governor's ban is lifted—as it is expected to be if rain as forecasted for tonight and tomorrow arrives—then residents of unincorporated villages and in rural areas may burn leaves. No permit is required.

NY Officials Strive Desperately to Get Formula for Peace

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — New York city officials strove desperately today to effect an agreement in a strike that has cut the flow of fresh milk for 12 million persons in the metropolitan area.

City prodding kept negotiations going early today in the wage-hour dispute between representatives of 200 companies and the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters, the union of the 13,000 striking drivers and plant workers.

Talks have been going on since 11:45 a. m. (EST) yesterday at the Roosevelt Hotel with federal, state and city mediators present. However, at 2 a. m. today the various parties left the hotel without indicating whether the talks were continuing elsewhere. The sessions had been held at three different hotels in as many days.

Just before last midnight, negotiators for both sides said they would remain in session—separately or together — throughout the night. They said, however, there would be no announcement before a formal meeting scheduled at 10 a. m.

Deliveries Cut Off

Deliveries to homes and retail outlets were cut off by the strike, which started Sunday afternoon. Consumers lined up yesterday outside dairy plants for rationed milk or turned to such substitutes as evaporated and powdered milk.

A little fresh milk was still left at some distrubting plants. About 3,500 lined up at one plant in Brooklyn. Each was allowed to buy one quart. In the Bronx another line of 2,500, including women pushing baby carriages, bought up to four quarts each from supplies laid in before the strike began Sunday.

The union kept milk supplies going to hospitals, schools and some other institutions. Milk tank trucks were diverted from the city to processing plants, for cheese and other dairy foods.

The companies involved in the dispute are in New York city, Long Island, Westchester and Rockland counties in New York, New Jersey north of Trenton and part of Fairfield county, Conn.

However, workers in the Fairfield area have not walked out because of no-strike clauses in contracts otherwise the same as in New York.

Rhinebeck Man Is Fined $25 For Disorderly Conduct

Richard Mikulka, 25, Rhinebeck resident had a narrow escape from serious injury early Sunday morning at Tropical Inn, Port Ewen, when John Pulvirenti the proprietor fired a shot at Mikluka who it is alleged was attempting to break into the Inn, paid a fine of $25 yesterday afternoon after pleading guilty to disorderly conduct.

Mikulka was arrested earlier in the day on his discharge from Kingston Hospital where he had been treated for superficial wounds of the chest and arm.

Under a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Francis E. Palen, Jr., of Port Ewen, Mikulka was charged with attempted burglarly. At the arrangement Frank Tucker, Rhinebeck attorney, appeared for Mikulka. Abram F. Molyneaux appeared for the district attorney's office.

Mikulka entered a plea of guilty to the disorderly conduct charge, a lesser charge than was originally brought. That plea was accepted and he was fined $25, which he paid.

The facts surrounding the shooting probably will be presented to the grand jury now in session.

According to an investigation by Under Sheriff Clayton S. Vredenburg and County Investigator Arthur Brown, Mikulka attempted to enter the Tropical Inn after it had been closed early Sunday morning. When deputies arrived he disappeared in the brush near the Inn and later returned and attempted to get in the door, Pulvirenti, who had secured his shotgun following the first attempt at entrance, fied a shot through the door. Most of the chargé was deflected by the door rail but several shots struck Mikulka glancing blows and he suffered superficial wounds in the left chest over the heart.

No charge has been lodged against Pulvirenti but the entire matter probably will be submitted to the grand jury by District Attorney Howard C. St. John.

Understanding Keystone Of Peace, Anderson Says

Frederick L. Anderson, a native of Kingston, former Deputy United States Special Representative to Europe and a major general during World War 2, addressed the fourth session of the Herald Tribune Forum last week in New York on Unity in Freedom.

Anderson, who is now in private business in Texas, told the Forum that European-American understanding was essential to the maintenance of peace and that President Eisenhower had done more than any other person in the world during recent years to make it clear that effective defense depended upon three major factors—a strong military establishment, a strong economic base and high morale and that, if any one of those was weak the total defense was weak.

Relations Deteriorate

He said there had been a marked decline in understanding between Europe and the United States during the past year, the most fundamental single cause of which, he felt, was the "tragic weakening" of the moral authority of the United States resulting from the "undisciplined statements" of certain public figures in their investigations both here and abroad.

Anderson pointed out that this country had earned its position as leader of the free world not only because it was strong but because it possessed "tremendous moral strength and moral attraction that comes from our long history of protecting zealously the dignity and freedom of individual human beings and of nations."

A second cause of the cooling in European-American relations, he said, was their belief that we are reluctant to permit them to earn their own way. Among the major obstacles to Europe earning its own way are tariffs against imports and failure of United States capital to move abroad for development of the free world's resources.

Calls For Restraint

He said certain European failures had been justifiably criticised in this country. He asked, however, if it were wise. "in this period of danger, for either Europe or the United States to indulge in recriminations while the situation deteriorates? Should not the United States be the leader in this restraint?"

He said the present Soviet strategy, as outlined a year ago by Malenkov and Stalin, was based upon the assumption that the Soviet Union, now controlling a large part of the resources of the world, will grow stronger—economically, industrially and militarily—while the free countries of the west—separate, divided, unable to maintain economic growth — will quarrel among themselves, will work against each other, will weaken each other to the point where the Soviet Union can, in time, take over without much trouble.

Graduate of KHS

Anderson was graduated from Kingston High School in 1923 and entered West Point in 1924 where he played varsity football and lacrosse and made a fine scholastic record. Upon graduation in 1928 he spent four years in the Philippines.

A pioneer during the period when our air forces were being developed, Anderson became a student of military bombing and during World War 2 was promoted to the rank of major general. An exponent of precision bombing, he directed bombing attacks on vital German war industries.

He left the air force in 1947 to become one of the key figures in America's European program. From 1950 to 1952 he was in the oil and natural gas business, served as consultant for Hornblower and Weeks of New York. The Anderson family—Mrs. Anderson, son Tavis and daughter Mary Winn—reside in Dallas, Texas.

PFO to Sponsor Book Fair November 17-20

New Paltz, Oct. 27—The Parent-Faculty Organization will again sponsor a Book Fair during National Book Week in November. Mrs. Robert Lang is the Book Fair chairman and Mrs. John Glancy, business manager. The committee includes Mrs. David Corwin, Mrs. Harold Tannenbaum, Mrs. Francis Sullivan and parents who will serve as assistants to the children in selecting books.

The fair will be held for four days, Tuesday, Nov. 17, through Friday, Nov. 20. When the first fair was held three years ago Mrs. George Langwick was chairman. She was assisted by Miss Ruth Walker, Campus School librarian, as business manager. The first book fair was held in the social room on the first floor but was so successful that since then the large library has been needed.

The money earned by the Book Fair is used in a large part to purchase new books for the library and classrooms. The PFO has few means of raising funds as there are no dues. Profits go into the general treasury to meet budget needs. The primary object is to provide the opportunity for school children to see and examine good books. Reading good books is still an exciting experience as well as an enriching one. The PFO wants to encourage this experience.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The stock market was lower today with many major divisions giving ground reluctantly.

The decline at the most went to between 1 and 2 points with very few issues falling past a point. Many leaders traded unchanged, and a few plus signs flecked the list.

Trading was at pace under yesterday's 1,340,000 shares and a few plus signs flecked the list.

Trading was at a pace under yesterday's 1,340,000 shares. A rush of trading developed at the start, but thereafter proceedings were quiet.

Steels and motors held fairly steady and backed down grudgingly. They were active. Railroads showed wider losses but not too much trading activity.

Also lower were rubbers, aircrafts, coppers, chemicals, and some oils.

Earnings reports and dividend actions usually had an immediate effect on individual issues.

International Business Machines lost 4 points right after directors declared a $1 cash dividend and a 2½ per cent stock dividend. A year ago the declaration was $1 cash and 5 per cent stock.

Understanding Keystone Of Peace, Anderson Says

Frederick L. Anderson, a native of Kingston, former Deputy United States Special Representative to Europe and a major general during World War 2, addressed the fourth session of the Herald Tribune Forum last week in New York on Unity in Freedom.

Anderson, who is now in private business in Texas, told the Forum that European-American understanding was essential to the maintenance of peace and that President Eisenhower had done more than any other person in the world during recent years to make it clear that effective defense depended upon three major factors—a strong military establishment, a strong economic base and high morale and that, if any one of those was weak the total defense was weak.

Relations Deteriorate

He said there had been a marked decline in understanding between Europe and the United States during the past year, the most fundamental single cause of which, he felt, was the "tragic weakening" of the moral authority of the United States resulting from the "undisciplined statements" of certain public figures in their investigations both here and abroad.

Anderson pointed out that this country had earned its position as leader of the free world not only because it was strong but because it possessed "tremendous moral strength and moral attraction that comes from our long history of protecting zealously the dignity and freedom of individual human beings and of nations."

A second cause of the cooling in European-American relations, he said, was their belief that we are reluctant to permit them to earn their own way. Among the major obstacles to Europe earning its own way are tariffs against imports and failure of United States capital to move abroad for development of the free world's resources.

Calls For Restraint

He said certain European failures had been justifiably criticised in this country. He asked, however, if it were wise. "in this period of danger, for either Europe or the United States to indulge in recriminations while the situation deteriorates? Should not the United States be the leader in this restraint?"

He said the present Soviet strategy, as outlined a year ago by Malenkov and Stalin, was based upon the assumption that the Soviet Union, now controlling a large part of the resources of the world, will grow stronger—economically, industrially and militarily—while the free countries of the west—separate, divided, unable to maintain economic growth — will quarrel among themselves, will work against each other, will weaken each other to the point where the Soviet Union can, in time, take over without much trouble.

Graduate of KHS

Anderson was graduated from Kingston High School in 1923 and entered West Point in 1924 where he played varsity football and lacrosse and made a fine scholastic record. Upon graduation in 1928 he spent four years in the Philippines.

A pioneer during the period when our air forces were being developed, Anderson became a student of military bombing and during World War 2 was promoted to the rank of major general. An exponent of precision bombing, he directed bombing attacks on vital German war industries.

He left the air force in 1947 to become one of the key figures in America's European program. From 1950 to 1952 he was in the oil and natural gas business, served as consultant for Hornblower and Weeks of New York. The Anderson family—Mrs. Anderson, son Tavis and daughter Mary Winn—reside in Dallas, Texas.

PFO to Sponsor Book Fair November 17-20

New Paltz, Oct. 27—The Parent-Faculty Organization will again sponsor a Book Fair during National Book Week in November. Mrs. Robert Lang is the Book Fair chairman and Mrs. John Glancy, business manager. The committee includes Mrs. David Corwin, Mrs. Harold Tannenbaum, Mrs. Francis Sullivan and parents who will serve as assistants to the children in selecting books.

The fair will be held for four days, Tuesday, Nov. 17, through Friday, Nov. 20. When the first fair was held three years ago Mrs. George Langwick was chairman. She was assisted by Miss Ruth Walker, Campus School librarian, as business manager. The first book fair was held in the social room on the first floor but was so successful that since then the large library has been needed.

The money earned by the Book Fair is used in a large part to purchase new books for the library and classrooms. The PFO has few means of raising funds as there are no dues. Profits go into the general treasury to meet budget needs. The primary object is to provide the opportunity for school children to see and examine good books. Reading good books is still an exciting experience as well as an enriching one. The PFO wants to encourage this experience.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The stock market was lower today with many major divisions giving ground reluctantly.

The decline at the most went to between 1 and 2 points with very few issues falling past a point. Many leaders traded unchanged, and a few plus signs flecked the list.

Trading was at pace under yesterday's 1,340,000 shares and a few plus signs flecked the list.

Trading was at a pace under yesterday's 1,340,000 shares. A rush of trading developed at the start, but thereafter proceedings were quiet.

Steels and motors held fairly steady and backed down grudgingly. They were active. Railroads showed wider losses but not too much trading activity.

Also lower were rubbers, aircrafts, coppers, chemicals, and some oils.

Earnings reports and dividend actions usually had an immediate effect on individual issues.

International Business Machines lost 4 points right after directors declared a $1 cash dividend and a 2½ per cent stock dividend. A year ago the declaration was $1 cash and 5 per cent stock.

IKE AND 1956 ELECTION

A fair number of columnists and others already are "retiring" President Eisenhower at the end of his first term. We would like to suggest that, with the President just nine months into his job, their conclusions are a trifle premature.

The reports about Mr. Eisenhower's alleged attitude are many and varied. Some say he made up his mind before he ever got into presidential politics that he would serve only four years. Others say this conviction has developed since he entered the White House.

He is said to have no liking for the job, and to wish to escape at the earliest chance. He is said to be annoyed by criticism, and to find the hard fighting with members of Congress distasteful. There is even one account which says he shows fatigue easily and becomes irritated with his staff.

Even if we assume that most of these things are true, which could well be an unwarranted assumption, there is no reason to take these comments too seriously at this stage.

In the first place, a job of the present dimensions and nature as the presidency is unlikely to appeal to any mortal man as ideal. It is an endless succession of headaches which cannot be shaken off. Crisis is the daily diet.

Such an operation, when first encountered, would almost surely have something of a shock effect on a man like Mr. Eisenhower. He is a gentle, sensitive person, and at the same time is accustomed to the neatness and order of the military world. Yet the presidency defies neat bounds, and it is rough on human sensibilities.

This all adds up to a way of saying it is too early to speak so positively about what Mr. Eisenhower will do in 1956. In 1945 and 1946, former President Truman was saying so often that he didn't want the job that his friends had to tell him to keep quiet about it. By 1948, he was fighting to run again.

Pre-White House declarations and first job reactions are no sure test of future presidential behavior. Not only do men's attitudes change, but they cannot possibly foresee all the circumstances which will enter into the decision when they finally must determine whether or not to run again.

They may honestly believe three years before the event that they can stand firm against any and all pressures to seek another term. But when the time comes, pressure may not even be needed. They may want badly to continue.

Speculation about Mr. Eisenhower's 1956 intentions makes interesting reading, but it is really the wildest sort of guessing. For, no matter what he may say to anyone today, not even the President himself can be certain what he will do when the moment of decision arrives.

More accidents occur in the home than in any other place. For the benefit of newly married men this is not intended as a comment on their wives' cooking.

FALCON DAM

The Falcon Dam, connecting the United States and Mexico across the Rio Grande is a splendid example of international cooperation. It is the first dam ever built across an international river in North America.

President Eisenhower and President Ruiz Cortinez participated in the dedication ceremonies. President Eisenhower emphasized the role the dam will play in furthering good relationship between the United States and Mexico and he recalled the historic friendship the two countries hold for each other. President Cortinez also paid tribute to the friendly ties between his country and ours and he spoke of what the dam will mean to his countrymen.

We are cooperating with a number of countries, aiding them to build up their armies and their defenses. This is necessary and desirable. But it is also pleasant to see an instance of the United States and a neighboring country working together on a constructive project which will bring mutual aid. The dam is a symbol of good will at work.

UNDERSTANDING THE TASK

The existence of the Monmouth Spy Ring, despite all the Congressional investigations and the trials in courts, establishes beyond doubt the superiority of the Russians in the fields of espionage and infiltration. They know how to do it. They keep at it. When one group has become expendable, they have ready another group to take its place.

American counter-espionage has not been effective. With few exceptions, it is hampered by ignorance. By that I mean that few Americans, either in government, in our universities or the press, have taken the trouble to study the theory, strategy and tactics of the world-wide Communist conspiracy. There is plenty of shouting and defaming but little real knowledge.

The Russians understand the American characteristic of easily becoming bored with the boresome. They therefore establish an apparatus which is like one of those toys they like so much in their country. Outside is a large box; you take one off and there is another box; you go on and on taking off boxes, until you have a tiny one. That is the hard core. That is what counts.

In the United States, for instance, the Communist Party never reached much over 100,000 members; but a single front organization had a membership of 4,000,000. That front organization was the cover and beneath it were many other front organizations. To get at the hard core is difficult, but it is the hard core alone that counts. The task, in all studies, is to separate all the innocents, the opportunists, the fellow-travelers, the careerists from the study, so that the hard core may be uncovered.

This taks is so difficult that although some very able work has been done in this technique, the data concerning the hard core is spotty, incomplete and inconclusive. If anyone knows a more effective way of doing it than by separating the sheep and goats from the foxes, he has not yet come up with a workable suggestion.

Many anti-Communists are so emotionally vindictive that they often, with the best of intentions, upset important developments by attacking the wrong people. For instance, in the studies of the Hollywood apparatus, which was designed to give the Communists a treasury, some 300 persons, many of considerable prominence, were involved, most of whom were dupes and suckers being used as a protective cover for the effective hard core. Until a mechanism was devised to separate this intricate design, it was impossible to discover who were the manipulators and who were being manipulated.

Some anti-Communists take the totally unchristian attitude that errors once made may never be forgiven. They follow the strictly Stalinist technique that confession of error must always be public and even untruthful to satisfy those who are to do the forgiving, which they never do. Some factors come from experience:

Many persons who were once associated with Communist causes and espionage groups actually did not understand what they were doing because they did not understand the nature and strategy of this conspiracy, just as their critics do not. However, a prolonged discussion with them of their experiences provides invaluable leads to the hard core. This is slow and patient work and can only be done by trained technicians who have the time to give to it and the capacity for sympathetic understanding.

The violently vindictive approach drives such a person to cover. He clams up and his valuable information may be lost forever. It must always be borne in mind in such conversations that the individual, no matter how helpful he may want to be, does not really understand the nature of his experience.

How complex this problem is was evidenced by the effort of a most distinguished law firm in New York to have Robert Morris disqualified as a candidate for judicial office because of his exemplary work in uncovering the conspiracy within the Institute of Pacific Relations. These are great lawyers, generally so regarded, but they are babes in arms in their understanding of how they and others like them are used as covers in this vast conspiracy. They seek evidence where it cannot be because it has been removed as a crook wipes fingerprints away. And not having their kind of evidence, they cannot believe even the obvious. Earl Jowitt wrote a book on Alger Hiss which proves how dumb a great lawyer can be in this field.

That Body of Yours

FIRST ATTACK OF CORONARY THROMBOSIS

With so many men and women in good health dying of a heart attack (coronary thrombosis), many may have the idea that a coronary attack is really a death sentence. It is a death sentence in some cases but, on the other hand, considering the number stricken with attacks of coronary thrombosis, the percentage of immediate deaths is very small.

In Postgraduate Medicine, Drs. H. I. Russek and B. I. Zohman report their analysis of 1,047 cases of coronary thrombosis, confirmed with electrocardiograms, seen in three New York hospitals. The ages of the patients varied from 30 to 88 years.

Four hundred and eighty-nine patients were classified as good risks since they had none of the following conditions (signs of poor risks) on the day of admission to the hospital: (1) history of previous attack of coronary thrombosis, (2) intractable pain, (3) extreme persistence of shock, (4) significant enlargement of the heart, (5) gallop rhythm, (6) congestive heart failure, (7) very rapid heart beat, (8) diabetic acidosis, (9) greatly overweight (10) varicose veins of legs and inflammation of veins of legs.

The analysis of these physicians showed that only about 3 per cent of patients who had a first attack and entered hospital with the above good history of their heart and blood vessels, died while in hospital. Almost half or these few deaths occurred during the first 48 hours.

Drs. Russek and Zohman point to the critical period that prevails during the first few days of the attack and the increased hazards resulting from physical, mental and emotional upsetments caused by needless removal to the hospital. They are opposed to the routine of giving of anticoagulants in all cases (drugs that prevent coagulation or thickening of the blood and forming of clots.) In fact, they are convinced that anticoagulant treatment is likely to influence the uncomplicated first attack.

The above information is not a dark picture in itself (only about 3 per cent of deaths follow first attack) and gives physicians and patients warning to live on lower physical, mental and emotional level and avoid later attacks. Not all physicians will agree regarding anticoagulant drugs.

"In the light of these observations, a more optimistic attitude is warranted about the recovery of all 'good risk' patients.

Learning how to live after an attack of coronary thrombosis will also save many lives of patients who are "poor risks."

Two Views of the Same Animal

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Wtshington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—People interested in the Society revolution which the Republicans have brought to your nation's capital now have a couple of signs to go by. A new fall and winter season is about to begin to commence to get started.

Squirrel, mink, chinchilla and other stoles and coats are being taken out of cold storage. Weather and other prophets observe that the fur is almost as thick as it was last year. This points to a hard winter ahead.

True, most of the functions thus far have been on Uncle Sam's cuff. It has been official entertaining. For the king and queen of the Hellenes. (Greece to you.) For the crown prince of Japan. For the president of Panama. For Chancellor Adenauer. The Spanish embassy threw a big party on Oct. 12 to celebrate the signing of the new treaty and the discovery of America by the Republicans, or something.

Anyway, Ex-No. 1 Washington Hostess Gwen Cafritz's parties ain't what they used to be in the dim days of the Democrats. The best she could do for ranking guests at a recent party was a couple of old ambassadors and Tom Clark.

The Republican Society (capital S, please) revolution, of course, has nothing to do with the recent "social" (small s) revolution. This social revolution, as everyone knows, with the help of inflation, had the net effect of making the poor so well-to-do that they wouldn't wait on each other any more—let alone take in each other's washing—for less than $1 an hour.

Overcome the Handicap

In other words, hired help for entertaining in Washington became practically unobtainable, except at overtime-on-overtime rates. This is the real mess the Republicans inherited when they came to town.

But there are signs, now, that the Republicans are overcoming this great handicap. The great RIF—or reduction in force of government employes — has been widely noted in the news columns. This has resulted in some unemployment. Two big Washington TV chain stores have recently gone into bankruptcy. The reason given was too many ex-government employes were unable to keep up their payments on time purchase of the de luxe 24-inch sets with the built-in automatic washers and nondefrosting freezers.

If this keeps on, it could mean that sooner or later there would be enough unemployment so that an ambitious hostess could go out on the streets and recruit a staff big enough to keep up an estate again. The effect of this on the Society revolution would be sensational.

●There are other portents that things are getting better. Immediately at hand is a circular letter put out by a Washington interior decorator who seems bent on catering to the Washington solid-gold Cadillac trade. As an economic indicator, this beats anything dug up by the 24 White House commissions now at work:

"A good many of them (the Republicans) seem not to have settled down sufficiently to feel at home," this letter from the uppity furniture dealer begins somewhat discouragingly

"Some of them still commute to far-off places. Some have tried nestling down in hotel rooms and furnished apartments. Some live in borrowed houses. When they do begin to feel that the Federal City is their natural habitat, we expect some calls."

To Fill Up TV Space

All right. With that opener, what has this interior decorator got to offer for sale to his new Republican clientele? This is the tip-off:

"For them we offer all the elegance that our talents and their pocketbooks will allow.

"We offer with pleasure a stunning fountain . . . made in cast aluminum. Baroque in style, it features a basin made like a shell into which water pours from the mounth of a dolphin. About the base, provisions have been made for a planting of greenery. It is 67 inches high, 48 inches wide, and extends 26 inches from the wall. You need not bother your pretty head about plumbing, as it contains a motor which recirculates the water.

"For that matter, if you wish to go hog-wild, it will operate just as nicely with champagne."

And so on. The price wasn't given.

But as something to fill up the space left vacant by the TV set, which the man took away in his wagon when the hard-pressed ex-government employe couldn't meet the last installment-plan payment, this elegant little cast aluminum champagne fountain is undoubtedly just the GOP economy-size thing.

Yes, it looks like a hot time will be had by all in Washington Society this winter.

Logan Act, With Sweeping Control of Various Communications, Called Out of Date

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 27—If you talk to the ambassador of any foreign country or any member of his staff and say anything that might possibly influence the opinion of these diplomats or their conduct on any matter in controversy with the United States, you may be arrested and put in jail.

This is what the so-called Logan Act really means. Yet few Americans know about it, and many of them are violating it every day both here and abroad. For the ban applies not merely to writing letters but also to oral communication.

The statute has never been enforced, possibly for the very good reason that its constitutionality might be challenged but mostly because nobody in our government probably would be able to determine judicially whether the foreign government has or has not been influenced by the communication in question.

The Logan Act has come into the news many times, and only a few days ago was cited in connection with a letter written by Representative O'Konski, Republican, of Wisconsin, to President Rhee of the Republic of Korea advising him to release the prisoners who don't want to go back to the Communists. Nobody probably would ever be able to prove in court, even if Mr. Rhee did release the prisoners, whether such an act would actually in the long run help or hurt the "measures of the government of the United States."

Also the statute says communication can be carried on with a foreign government only if it is done with permission of our government, and the law doesn't say whether, for this purpose, Congress is or is not a part of the government. Usually when the executive branch is referred to in the statutes, the words "United States" are used and rarely is the broader word "government" by itself employed.

The exact wording of the Logan Act is so sweeping that it would cover almost every form of contact between newspapermen, business men, legislators, and others who talk over problems of the day with members of foreign governments or their diplomatic representatives in the various capitals of the world. Here is the text of the law, passed in 1799 and never repealed:

"Every citizen of the United States, whether actually resident or abiding within the same, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or in any foreign country, who, without the permission or authority of the government, directly or indirectly, commences or carries on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with an intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the government of the United States; and every person, being a citizen of or resident within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and not duly authorized, who counsels, advises, or assists in any such correspondence with such intent, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than three years; but nothing in this section shall be construed to abridge the right of a citizen to apply, himself or his agent, to any foreign government or the agents thereof for redress of any injury which he may have sustained from such government or any of its agents or subjects."

There are many organizations in America which have felt free to interpose their influence with the diplomatic representatives of other countries—often with the intent of helping to bring about a peaceful solution of existing disputes or controversies with the United States. Yet such well-meaning efforts, unless authorized in advance, could be the subject of prosecution if the Logan Act were enforced.

Then there are instances when foreign diplomats seek out Americans and frankly discuss existing situations in relation to disputes with the United States. For any American to advise a foreign government in such an informal chat at luncheon or dinner becomes an offense under the Logan Act unless permission has been granted by our "government."

This is one of the laws that, if passed for the first time today, would be greeted with cries of "thought control" and "conformity." For it is a law that plainly would restrict free speech and the freedom of the press, since a newspaperman who wrote an editorial criticizing the policy of the American government and sent a copy of his newspaper to a foreign government could technically be charged with violating the Logan Act.

It is high time Congress appointed a committee to repeal useless laws—and the Logan Act is certainly one of them. It would be desirable to have a law that prohibited any American from representing himself as authorized to speak for the executive branch of the United States government in any communication with a foreign government, but the present law goes far beyond that restriction.

Health for All

IT ISN'T TRUE

"Only poor people get TB." When you hear anyone make that statement, speak right up and say, "It isn't true."

A bank account is no barrier against tuberculosis. The disease is caused by a germ passed on by people who have active TB. It can attack castle or cabin.

Poverty can make people more vulnerable to TB. Poor nutrition weakens resistance to infection. Crowded slum living conditions make it easy for germs to be spread from person to person. But most of us live and work in close contact with a number of people. If one of them has TB, some of the germs are likely to be passed on.

This does not mean that the disease will necessarily develop. The germs may live indefinitely in the body without doing serious harm. But if there is a heavy bombardment of germs, or if resistance is lowered by illness, emotional strain, or bad health habits, TB may develop. The business man who can't take time to eat properly and the housewife who diets unwisely lower their resistance to TB just as effectively as people who can't afford to buy steak.

There are barriers you can build against TB. Good basic health is one. Cooperation with community efforts to fight the disease is another. Your tuberculosis association is fighting TB through education, rehabilitation, case finding, and medical research.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, 74 John street.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

The Prudential Life Insurance Company has written a group policy covering laborers who are members of Locals 472 and 172 in Newark, N. J. Of the heavy and general laborers union which are components of the Hodcarriers' union, one of the most corrupt rackets in the AFof L. This is the one which went 31 years without a convention and shook down farmers and roving pick-and-shovel workers all over the country for initiation fees and dues during the construction phase of our military program. It will clarify your opinion to bear in mind that this was Jim Bove's union in the notorious Fay-Bove system of shakedowns on many millions of dollars of public construction around New York.

Prudential published a booklet explaining this group policy to the members of Locals 472 and 172. The terms are generally typical and the most interesting features are the gimmicks which leave the laborer uninsured under certain union conditions.

For instance, a local which sells "permits" to non-members may have thousands of "permit" men on a given "project." The employer pays 3 per cent of his entire payroll for work in such a local's jurisdiction but the "permit" men are not insured. In this particular case the money is paid by the employer to two groups of trustees representing the union and the employers respectively.

One of the union trustees is Joe Madden, an old side-kick of Joe Fay and for many years a political ally of Frank Hague of Jersey City. The employers' list of trustees in this deal is led off by Hugh J. Connelly, of Trenton, representing the Association of General Contractors of America, with headquarters in Washington. Mr. Connelly is an insurance man, rather than a construction contractor, but that is not remarkable because it would be wise of the employers to have an insurance expert watching the deal for them. Mr. Connelly was not in when I telephoned but his secretary said he did not write this policy, as agent.

On Page 2 of the booklet the brothers are warned to check up now and again to make sure that the employers "have contributed for each hour you have worked." It doesn't come out until the worker thumbs his way over to Page 5 that he may work 499 hours in a given six-months' period without acquiring any coverage at all. The clause on that says "the insurance will become effective on the first of the month following a period not exceeding 6 calendar months during which you have completed 500 hours of work."

So if a man gets in 499 hours in a half year and is laid off he is out of luck. He simply does not exist on the insurance company's books. This would leave a great deal of uncommitted money in the "welfare" fund of the local. The brother who actually has a union card as distinguished from a "permit," and works 500 or more hours in six months, learns on Page 11 that he is insured to a limited, and possibly insufficient amount for surgery due to an accident but not if he is hurt on the job.

Of course a heavy-duty laborer can be knocked over by a truck on the way home but he works in a fairly hazardous occupation and would seem to be more likely to be bunged up at work. However, if so, his workmen's compensation is all he gets. And if goons from a rival union or the entertainment committee of his own local should break his leg as a reproof for some ethical lapse, that is no accident. Back on Page 13 it says a brother comes uncovered if he has worked less than 250 hours for a contributing employer in three

Until a mechanism was devised to separate this intricate design, it was impossible to discover who were the manipulators and who were being manipulated.

Some anti-Communists take the totally unchristian attitude that errors once made may never be forgiven. They follow the strictly Stalinist technique that confession of error must always be public and even untruthful to satisfy those who are to do the forgiving, which they never do. Some factors come from experience:

Many persons who were once associated with Communist causes and espionage groups actually did not understand what they were doing because they did not understand the nature and strategy of this conspiracy, just as their critics do not. However, a prolonged discussion with them of their experiences provides invaluable leads to the hard core. This is slow and patient work and can only be done by trained technicians who have the time to give to it and the capacity for sympathetic understanding.

The violently vindictive approach drives such a person to cover. He clams up and his valuable information may be lost forever. It must always be borne in mind in such conversations that the individual, no matter how helpful he may want to be, does not really understand the nature of his experience.

How complex this problem is was evidenced by the effort of a most distinguished law firm in New York to have Robert Morris disqualified as a candidate for judicial office because of his exemplary work in uncovering the conspiracy within the Institute of Pacific Relations. These are great lawyers, generally so regarded, but they are babes in arms in their understanding of how they and others like them are used as covers in this vast conspiracy. They seek evidence where it cannot be because it has been removed as a crook wipes fingerprints away. And not having their kind of evidence, they cannot believe even the obvious. Earl Jowitt wrote a book on Alger Hiss which proves how dumb a great lawyer can be in this field.

That Body of Yours

FIRST ATTACK OF CORONARY THROMBOSIS

With so many men and women in good health dying of a heart attack (coronary thrombosis), many may have the idea that a coronary attack is really a death sentence. It is a death sentence in some cases but, on the other hand, considering the number stricken with attacks of coronary thrombosis, the percentage of immediate deaths is very small.

In Postgraduate Medicine, Drs. H. I. Russek and B. I. Zohman report their analysis of 1,047 cases of coronary thrombosis, confirmed with electrocardiograms, seen in three New York hospitals. The ages of the patients varied from 30 to 88 years.

Four hundred and eighty-nine patients were classified as good risks since they had none of the following conditions (signs of poor risks) on the day of admission to the hospital: (1) history of previous attack of coronary thrombosis, (2) intractable pain, (3) extreme persistence of shock, (4) significant enlargement of the heart, (5) gallop rhythm, (6) congestive heart failure, (7) very rapid heart beat, (8) diabetic acidosis, (9) greatly overweight (10) varicose veins of legs and inflammation of veins of legs.

The analysis of these physicians showed that only about 3 per cent of patients who had a first attack and entered hospital with the above good history of their heart and blood vessels, died while in hospital. Almost half or these few deaths occurred during the first 48 hours.

Drs. Russek and Zohman point to the critical period that prevails during the first few days of the attack and the increased hazards resulting from physical, mental and emotional upsetments caused by needless removal to the hospital. They are opposed to the routine of giving of anticoagulants in all cases (drugs that prevent coagulation or thickening of the blood and forming of clots.) In fact, they are convinced that anticoagulant treatment is likely to influence the uncomplicated first attack.

The above information is not a dark picture in itself (only about 3 per cent of deaths follow first attack) and gives physicians and patients warning to live on lower physical, mental and emotional level and avoid later attacks. Not all physicians will agree regarding anticoagulant drugs.

"In the light of these observations, a more optimistic attitude is warranted about the recovery of all 'good risk' patients.

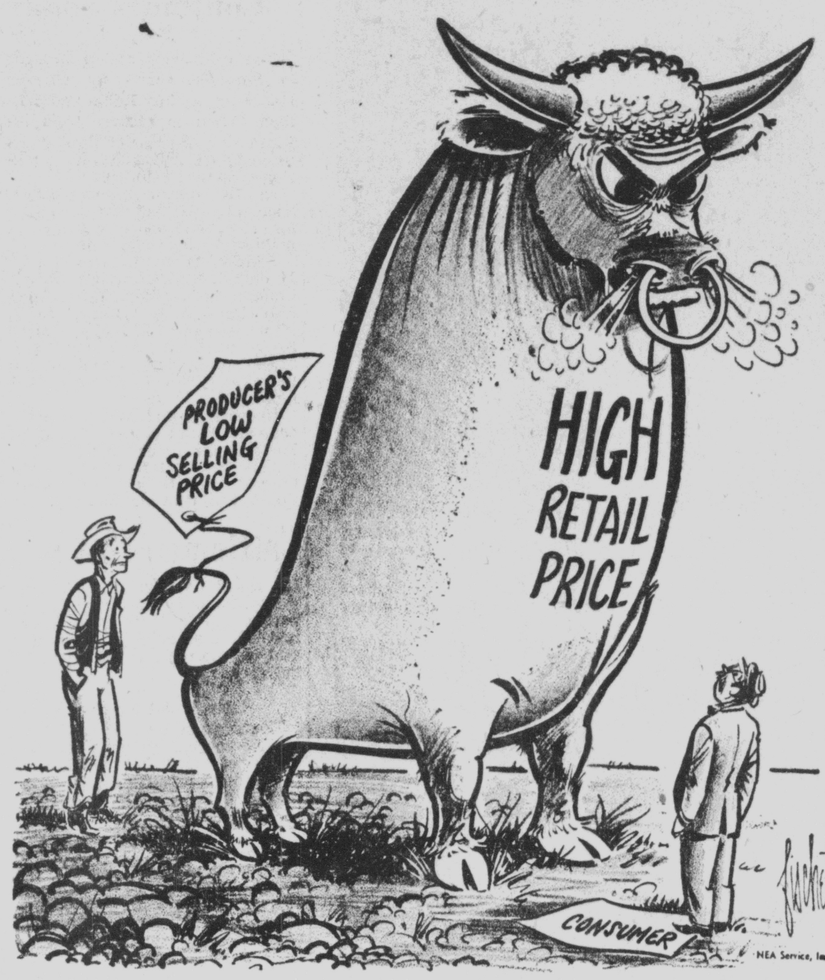

Learning how to live after an attack of coronary thrombosis will also save many lives of patients who are "poor risks."

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Wtshington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—People interested in the Society revolution which the Republicans have brought to your nation's capital now have a couple of signs to go by. A new fall and winter season is about to begin to commence to get started.

Squirrel, mink, chinchilla and other stoles and coats are being taken out of cold storage. Weather and other prophets observe that the fur is almost as thick as it was last year. This points to a hard winter ahead.

True, most of the functions thus far have been on Uncle Sam's cuff. It has been official entertaining. For the king and queen of the Hellenes. (Greece to you.) For the crown prince of Japan. For the president of Panama. For Chancellor Adenauer. The Spanish embassy threw a big party on Oct. 12 to celebrate the signing of the new treaty and the discovery of America by the Republicans, or something.

Anyway, Ex-No. 1 Washington Hostess Gwen Cafritz's parties ain't what they used to be in the dim days of the Democrats. The best she could do for ranking guests at a recent party was a couple of old ambassadors and Tom Clark.

The Republican Society (capital S, please) revolution, of course, has nothing to do with the recent "social" (small s) revolution. This social revolution, as everyone knows, with the help of inflation, had the net effect of making the poor so well-to-do that they wouldn't wait on each other any more—let alone take in each other's washing—for less than $1 an hour.

Overcome the Handicap

In other words, hired help for entertaining in Washington became practically unobtainable, except at overtime-on-overtime rates. This is the real mess the Republicans inherited when they came to town.

But there are signs, now, that the Republicans are overcoming this great handicap. The great RIF—or reduction in force of government employes — has been widely noted in the news columns. This has resulted in some unemployment. Two big Washington TV chain stores have recently gone into bankruptcy. The reason given was too many ex-government employes were unable to keep up their payments on time purchase of the de luxe 24-inch sets with the built-in automatic washers and nondefrosting freezers.

If this keeps on, it could mean that sooner or later there would be enough unemployment so that an ambitious hostess could go out on the streets and recruit a staff big enough to keep up an estate again. The effect of this on the Society revolution would be sensational.

There are other portents that things are getting better. Immediately at hand is a circular letter put out by a Washington interior decorator who seems bent on catering to the Washington solid-gold Cadillac trade. As an economic indicator, this beats anything dug up by the 24 White House commissions now at work:

"A good many of them (the Republicans) seem not to have settled down sufficiently to feel at home," this letter from the uppity furniture dealer begins somewhat discouragingly

"Some of them still commute to far-off places. Some have tried nestling down in hotel rooms and furnished apartments. Some live in borrowed houses. When they do begin to feel that the Federal City is their natural habitat, we expect some calls."

To Fill Up TV Space

All right. With that opener, what has this interior decorator got to offer for sale to his new Republican clientele? This is the tip-off:

"For them we offer all the elegance that our talents and their pocketbooks will allow.

"We offer with pleasure a stunning fountain . . . made in cast aluminum. Baroque in style, it features a basin made like a shell into which water pours from the mounth of a dolphin. About the base, provisions have been made for a planting of greenery. It is 67 inches high, 48 inches wide, and extends 26 inches from the wall. You need not bother your pretty head about plumbing, as it contains a motor which recirculates the water.

"For that matter, if you wish to go hog-wild, it will operate just as nicely with champagne."

And so on. The price wasn't given.

But as something to fill up the space left vacant by the TV set, which the man took away in his wagon when the hard-pressed ex-government employe couldn't meet the last installment-plan payment, this elegant little cast aluminum champagne fountain is undoubtedly just the GOP economy-size thing.

Yes, it looks like a hot time will be had by all in Washington Society this winter.

Logan Act, With Sweeping Control of Various Communications, Called Out of Date

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 27—If you talk to the ambassador of any foreign country or any member of his staff and say anything that might possibly influence the opinion of these diplomats or their conduct on any matter in controversy with the United States, you may be arrested and put in jail.

This is what the so-called Logan Act really means. Yet few Americans know about it, and many of them are violating it every day both here and abroad. For the ban applies not merely to writing letters but also to oral communication.

The statute has never been enforced, possibly for the very good reason that its constitutionality might be challenged but mostly because nobody in our government probably would be able to determine judicially whether the foreign government has or has not been influenced by the communication in question.

The Logan Act has come into the news many times, and only a few days ago was cited in connection with a letter written by Representative O'Konski, Republican, of Wisconsin, to President Rhee of the Republic of Korea advising him to release the prisoners who don't want to go back to the Communists. Nobody probably would ever be able to prove in court, even if Mr. Rhee did release the prisoners, whether such an act would actually in the long run help or hurt the "measures of the government of the United States."

Also the statute says communication can be carried on with a foreign government only if it is done with permission of our government, and the law doesn't say whether, for this purpose, Congress is or is not a part of the government. Usually when the executive branch is referred to in the statutes, the words "United States" are used and rarely is the broader word "government" by itself employed.

The exact wording of the Logan Act is so sweeping that it would cover almost every form of contact between newspapermen, business men, legislators, and others who talk over problems of the day with members of foreign governments or their diplomatic representatives in the various capitals of the world. Here is the text of the law, passed in 1799 and never repealed:

"Every citizen of the United States, whether actually resident or abiding within the same, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or in any foreign country, who, without the permission or authority of the government, directly or indirectly, commences or carries on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with an intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the government of the United States; and every person, being a citizen of or resident within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and not duly authorized, who counsels, advises, or assists in any such correspondence with such intent, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than three years; but nothing in this section shall be construed to abridge the right of a citizen to apply, himself or his agent, to any foreign government or the agents thereof for redress of any injury which he may have sustained from such government or any of its agents or subjects."

There are many organizations in America which have felt free to interpose their influence with the diplomatic representatives of other countries—often with the intent of helping to bring about a peaceful solution of existing disputes or controversies with the United States. Yet such well-meaning efforts, unless authorized in advance, could be the subject of prosecution if the Logan Act were enforced.

Then there are instances when foreign diplomats seek out Americans and frankly discuss existing situations in relation to disputes with the United States. For any American to advise a foreign government in such an informal chat at luncheon or dinner becomes an offense under the Logan Act unless permission has been granted by our "government."

This is one of the laws that, if passed for the first time today, would be greeted with cries of "thought control" and "conformity." For it is a law that plainly would restrict free speech and the freedom of the press, since a newspaperman who wrote an editorial criticizing the policy of the American government and sent a copy of his newspaper to a foreign government could technically be charged with violating the Logan Act.

It is high time Congress appointed a committee to repeal useless laws—and the Logan Act is certainly one of them. It would be desirable to have a law that prohibited any American from representing himself as authorized to speak for the executive branch of the United States government in any communication with a foreign government, but the present law goes far beyond that restriction.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

The Prudential Life Insurance Company has written a group policy covering laborers who are members of Locals 472 and 172 in Newark, N. J. Of the heavy and general laborers union which are components of the Hodcarriers' union, one of the most corrupt rackets in the AFof L. This is the one which went 31 years without a convention and shook down farmers and roving pick-and-shovel workers all over the country for initiation fees and dues during the construction phase of our military program. It will clarify your opinion to bear in mind that this was Jim Bove's union in the notorious Fay-Bove system of shakedowns on many millions of dollars of public construction around New York.

Prudential published a booklet explaining this group policy to the members of Locals 472 and 172. The terms are generally typical and the most interesting features are the gimmicks which leave the laborer uninsured under certain union conditions.

For instance, a local which sells "permits" to non-members may have thousands of "permit" men on a given "project." The employer pays 3 per cent of his entire payroll for work in such a local's jurisdiction but the "permit" men are not insured. In this particular case the money is paid by the employer to two groups of trustees representing the union and the employers respectively.

One of the union trustees is Joe Madden, an old side-kick of Joe Fay and for many years a political ally of Frank Hague of Jersey City. The employers' list of trustees in this deal is led off by Hugh J. Connelly, of Trenton, representing the Association of General Contractors of America, with headquarters in Washington. Mr. Connelly is an insurance man, rather than a construction contractor, but that is not remarkable because it would be wise of the employers to have an insurance expert watching the deal for them. Mr. Connelly was not in when I telephoned but his secretary said he did not write this policy, as agent.

On Page 2 of the booklet the brothers are warned to check up now and again to make sure that the employers "have contributed for each hour you have worked." It doesn't come out until the worker thumbs his way over to Page 5 that he may work 499 hours in a given six-months' period without acquiring any coverage at all. The clause on that says "the insurance will become effective on the first of the month following a period not exceeding 6 calendar months during which you have completed 500 hours of work."

So if a man gets in 499 hours in a half year and is laid off he is out of luck. He simply does not exist on the insurance company's books. This would leave a great deal of uncommitted money in the "welfare" fund of the local. The brother who actually has a union card as distinguished from a "permit," and works 500 or more hours in six months, learns on Page 11 that he is insured to a limited, and possibly insufficient amount for surgery due to an accident but not if he is hurt on the job.

Of course a heavy-duty laborer can be knocked over by a truck on the way home but he works in a fairly hazardous occupation and would seem to be more likely to be bunged up at work. However, if so, his workmen's compensation is all he gets. And if goons from a rival union or the entertainment committee of his own local should break his leg as a reproof for some ethical lapse, that is no accident. Back on Page 13 it says a brother comes uncovered if he has worked less than 250 hours for a contributing employer in three

Health for All

IT ISN'T TRUE

"Only poor people get TB." When you hear anyone make that statement, speak right up and say, "It isn't true."

A bank account is no barrier against tuberculosis. The disease is caused by a germ passed on by people who have active TB. It can attack castle or cabin.

Poverty can make people more vulnerable to TB. Poor nutrition weakens resistance to infection. Crowded slum living conditions make it easy for germs to be spread from person to person. But most of us live and work in close contact with a number of people. If one of them has TB, some of the germs are likely to be passed on.

This does not mean that the disease will necessarily develop. The germs may live indefinitely in the body without doing serious harm. But if there is a heavy bombardment of germs, or if resistance is lowered by illness, emotional strain, or bad health habits, TB may develop. The business man who can't take time to eat properly and the housewife who diets unwisely lower their resistance to TB just as effectively as people who can't afford to buy steak.

There are barriers you can build against TB. Good basic health is one. Cooperation with community efforts to fight the disease is another. Your tuberculosis association is fighting TB through education, rehabilitation, case finding, and medical research.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, 74 John street.

Wallkill, Oct. 26—At a regular meeting of the Wallkill Chamber of Commerce it was decided that a photo contest with cash prizes for the winners will be sponsored by the Chamber in an effort to obtain illustrations of local scenes to be included in a vacationland booklet published by the Chamber. Plans are now being formulated by a committee headed by Harold H. Titus for the publication of the brochure on the Wallkill area to be distributed in all large cities. The office of Harold H. Titus, Inc. has been declared contest headquarters with J. Addison Ronk and Robert J. Robinson also serving on the contest committee.

The chamber voted an appropriation of $50 for its recreation committee to aid in financing the community Halloween party slated for October 31, and to help continue the summer swimming program next year. George F. Vogel, committee member informed the Chamber that more than 100 children had learned to swim under the program and that more than 40 had received instructions each day. Vogel went on to say that greater community support must be gained next year or the program would have to be curtailed sharply.

George Parliman, Clifford Quick, Harry Dunn, George Crist and Jesse McHugh were committee members appointed in charge of the Christmas lighting for the village streets this year.

Other items under discussion were the proposed park memorial for men from the area who served in World War 2 and the purchase and erection of a flagpole in the park. President Daniel Van Alst and E. Lester Mack will attend the next town board meeting to request action on the flagpole.

Robert J. Robinson then explained the situation on the school's district building program and reviewed reasons for the need of the additional $275,000 to complete all of the proposed construction.

Hotrod or Blonde

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 27 (AP)—"There is nothing that can get a fellow in trouble faster than a hotrod unless it's a blonde." That was Judge L. A. Grayson's declaration yesterday to three young men convicted of burglary. "They cost you a lot of money, and if you don't have money to buy things for them, you steal it," Judge Grayson continued, referring to the stripped down, charged up motor cars. Then he told Raymond Duncan, 20, and two 18-year-old youths, Charles Howard and Mike Roth, they cannot own or operate a hotrod for five years. That was one of the conditions on which he granted them probation. They already have served six months each for breaking into a drive-in restaurant and stealing cash and beer valued at $17.

months or less than 1,000 hours in a calendar year. In all cases, the insurance is canceled if the brother's per capita tax is not paid to the international or parent union, which has headquarters in Washington.

It sometimes happens in union affairs that the collecting agent of a local forgets to send the per capita taxes along to the international. In that sad event it would seem that the poor working stiff loses his insurance even though he has paid it to the local.

Many workers in the phases of toil embraced by this international are transients who don't take root anywhere. There are thousands of other drifters or boomers who follow construction jobs all over the country, working as plumbers, painters, lathers and so forth. They don't stay in one town or work for one boss long enough to qualify. In some lines they are claimed by and pay dues to a special unit with a desk in the international headquarters. One such construction worker phoned me long-distance to say that employers in half a dozen scattered states had been paying such a local on his behalf for years but that he had nothing in his book to prove it.

This group insurance is booming all over now. The agents draw enormous commissions and the long arm of coincidence often contrives that the kin-folks of the union bosses go into the agency racket and bring home the hogside.

A strange thing happened the other day in Santa Monica where a local of Dave Beck's teamsters was fixing to knock off a taxicab company for refusing to accept a certain policy and no other, even though the boss offered equally good coverage or better.

I wrote the boss but got no answer, which is about usual in this land of freedom. But Gordon Macker, a reporter drafted from sports to cover this fight and a similar situation involving waiters in local beaneries, wrote as follows:

"The cab company strike came to a sudden and unexpected end. The union backed down, walked into the cab company office and said they would withdraw their health and welfare plan if the company would give the difference to the employes. Owner agreed. Later, I have a hunch, the union will make the employes take out insurance."

I have an idea why the unioneers got cold feet there. Bill McKenna, counsel for old man Hoffman's congressional committee, who has been raising hell with union rackets in Kansas City and Detroit, showed up in Santa Monica asking questions.

Press Agent Sues

Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 27 (AP)—Shelley Winters is being sued by a press agent, Russell Birdwell, for $4,750 which he claims is due him as 5 per cent of her earnings since June 1. In connection with the suit Miss Winters' $15,000 weekly salary at the Flamingo Hotel here was attached. Birdwell's complaint, filed yesterday, said the actress paid him $1,000 when the contract was signed but nothing since.

Hotrod or Blonde

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 27 (AP)—"There is nothing that can get a fellow in trouble faster than a hotrod unless it's a blonde." That was Judge L. A. Grayson's declaration yesterday to three young men convicted of burglary. "They cost you a lot of money, and if you don't have money to buy things for them, you steal it," Judge Grayson continued, referring to the stripped down, charged up motor cars. Then he told Raymond Duncan, 20, and two 18-year-old youths, Charles Howard and Mike Roth, they cannot own or operate a hotrod for five years. That was one of the conditions on which he granted them probation. They already have served six months each for breaking into a drive-in restaurant and stealing cash and beer valued at $17.

months or less than 1,000 hours in a calendar year. In all cases, the insurance is canceled if the brother's per capita tax is not paid to the international or parent union, which has headquarters in Washington.

It sometimes happens in union affairs that the collecting agent of a local forgets to send the per capita taxes along to the international. In that sad event it would seem that the poor working stiff loses his insurance even though he has paid it to the local.

Many workers in the phases of toil embraced by this international are transients who don't take root anywhere. There are thousands of other drifters or boomers who follow construction jobs all over the country, working as plumbers, painters, lathers and so forth. They don't stay in one town or work for one boss long enough to qualify. In some lines they are claimed by and pay dues to a special unit with a desk in the international headquarters. One such construction worker phoned me long-distance to say that employers in half a dozen scattered states had been paying such a local on his behalf for years but that he had nothing in his book to prove it.

This group insurance is booming all over now. The agents draw enormous commissions and the long arm of coincidence often contrives that the kin-folks of the union bosses go into the agency racket and bring home the hogside.

A strange thing happened the other day in Santa Monica where a local of Dave Beck's teamsters was fixing to knock off a taxicab company for refusing to accept a certain policy and no other, even though the boss offered equally good coverage or better.

I wrote the boss but got no answer, which is about usual in this land of freedom. But Gordon Macker, a reporter drafted from sports to cover this fight and a similar situation involving waiters in local beaneries, wrote as follows:

"The cab company strike came to a sudden and unexpected end. The union backed down, walked into the cab company office and said they would withdraw their health and welfare plan if the company would give the difference to the employes. Owner agreed. Later, I have a hunch, the union will make the employes take out insurance."

I have an idea why the unioneers got cold feet there. Bill McKenna, counsel for old man Hoffman's congressional committee, who has been raising hell with union rackets in Kansas City and Detroit, showed up in Santa Monica asking questions.

Gets Real One This Time

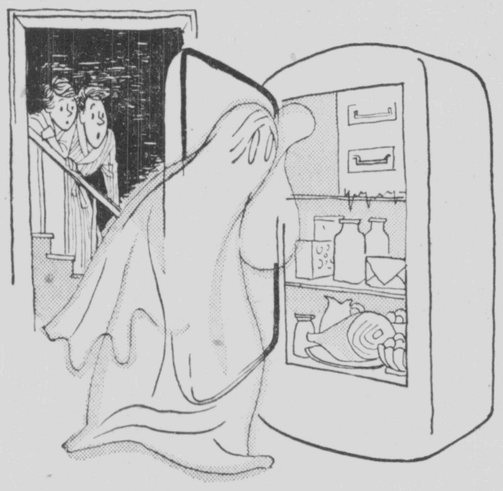

Shawnee, Okla., Oct. 27 (AP)—Golfer Paul Mott got a birdie with one stroke yesterday — a woodpecker. His slice off the green at the country club carried into a tree bordering the course. Both ball and bird fell together out of the branches.

"What are those strange noises?

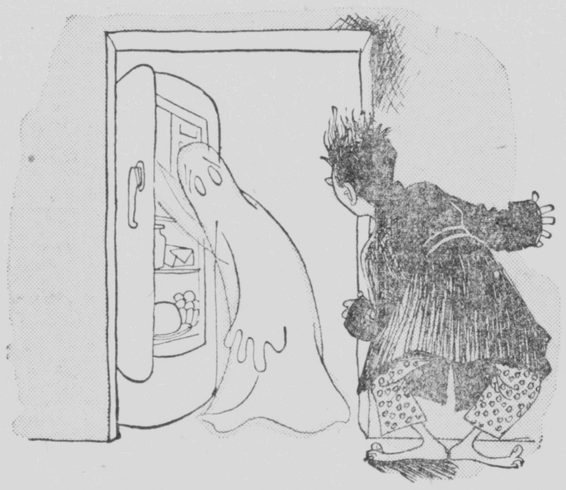

Go downstairs and see!"

To her terrified husband cries Mrs. McGee—

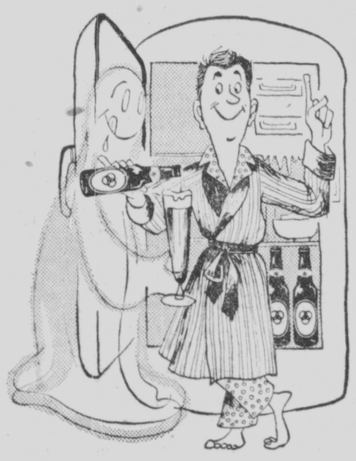

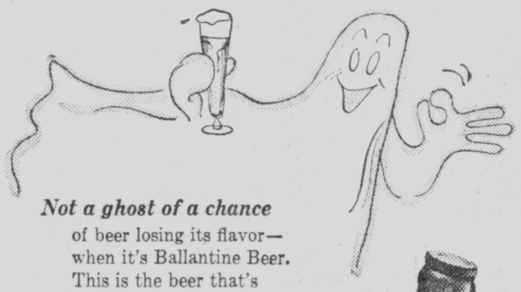

A wail from their guest makes it hauntingly clear
They've thoughtlessly run out of Ballantine Beer.

"I'm afraid," says McGee, "I'm not much of a host;
We'll stock up tomorrow for you, Mr. Ghost!"

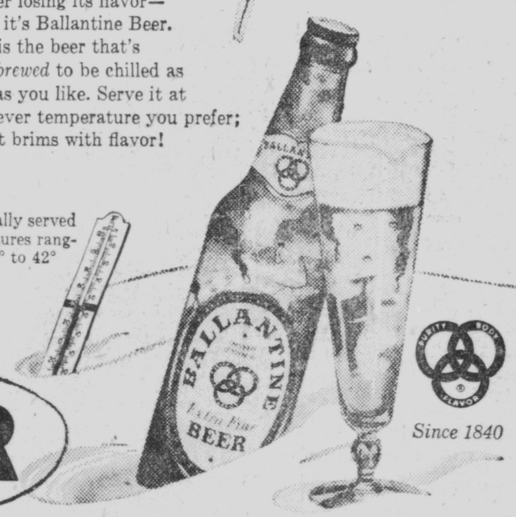

"Drop in on us, Sir, any time that you will—There'll always be flavor that chill can't kill!"

Not a ghost of a chance of beer losing its flavor—when it's Ballantine Beer. This is the beer that's deep-brewed to be chilled as cold as you like. Serve it at whatever temperature you prefer; it just brims with flavor!

Beer is usually served at temperatures ranging from 35° to 42° Fahrenheit.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 27 (AP)—There's a man here named X Ray who sees a flaw in other claims to the title of "Nation's Smallest Mailman." X Ray—that's his real name—is 5-foot-2 and weighs only 112 pounds. Charlie Burton, a 63-year-old 115-pounder, retired from the postal service down in Orange, Tex., last week and there were claims he was the smallest letter carrier in the country. Ray, 56, and the father of seven children, was born in Asheville, N. C. The doctor who delivered him had the first X-ray machine in town. So his parents took a cue and named him X—X Ray.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Learn Finesse And Avoid Grief

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The finesse is a peculiar play: you spend half of your bridge career learning it, and the other half avoiding it. The beginner goes out of his way to take finesses; the expert goes to great trouble to avoid them.

In today's hand, for example, the slam seems to depend on a successful club fineese once it has been discovered that the diamonds are not 3-3. The average player would win the first trick with the ace of hearts, draw trumps, and perhaps even run an extra trump or two for good measure.

He would then try three rounds of diamonds in the hope of setting up dummy's fourth diamond. When that hope failed, he would try the club finesse and loose his slam contract gracefully.

The expert would play the hand quite differently. After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts he draws only two rounds of trumps. Then he tries the three top diamonds.

When West is known to have the fourth diamond, the slam is ice cold. The correct play is to ruff dummy's queen of hearts, get back to dummy with a trump, and lead the last diamond from dummy.

South must not ruff dummy's last diamond. Instead, he discards the eight of clubs, allowing West to win the trick. If West returns a club, South gets a free finesse. If West returns a heart (the only other possibility), dummy ruffs while South discards the queen of clubs.

An early club finesse would be wrong even if the diamonds were switched so that East rather than West held the four diamonds. Upon discovering the diamond break on the third top diamond, South would lead the queen of hearts from dummy.

If East played low, (after all, the opening lead might conceivably be from king-jack-ten), South would throw the eight of clubs and catch West in an end-play.

Even if East were able to put up the king of hearts to thwart this end-play, South would not be beaten. He would ruff the king of hearts and get back to dummy with a trump in order to lead a club.

South would try to finesse the eight of clubs if East were foolish enough to play low. If successful, this play would catch West in the same end-play that we have been witnessing all along.

Only if all these plans failed would an expert South risk the finesse of the club queen.

Neat Halloween Treat For Taming Tricksters

It's almost time for spooks and witches to haunt your neighborhood again, so better be ready with treats for all the Halloween spirits that ring your doorbell next Saturday. Want to put smiles on the little faces behind those weird and fearsome masks? Treat your trick-happy visitors to some chewing gum. Sticks or packages of gum win youngsters' thanks instead of pranks. The cost is small and the treats are ready-wrapped for quick and easy handling. What's more, your parental neighbors will be thankful your treat was chewing gum because it's healthful, wholesome and won't overload goblins' tummies. A stop at your friendly merchant's display of chewing gum will prepare you for treating 'em right. That's the spirit!

Thyme, now used as a seasoning, was used by the ancient Greeks as incense in their temples.

Pursuant to the provisions of section seventy-two of the Election Law, the following Proposed Amendments to the Constitution numbers One to Nine inclusive, will be submitted to the voters of the State for approval at the General Election on November third, nineteen hundred and fifty-three.

THOMAS J. CURRAN,
Secretary of State.

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number One

The purposes and effects of this proposed amendment are:

1. To authorize the temporary assignment, upon an order of the majority of the justices of the appellate division of the supreme court in the judicial department to which the assignment is made, of a county judge of the counties of Bronx, Kings, Queens or Richmond, or a judge of the court of general sessions of the county of New York, or a justice of the city court of the city of New York, to hold a trial or special term of the supreme court in any county within the city of New York.

2. To authorize the temporary assignment, upon a similar order, of a justice of the court of special sessions of the city of New York, to hold a trial or special term of any county court within the city of New York or of the court of general sessions of the county of New York.

3. To authorize the temporary assignment, upon a similar order, of a justice of the court of special sessions of the city of New York or a justice of the municipal court of the city of New York, to hold a trial or special term of the city court of the city of New York.

No such temporary assignment of any judge or justice shall affect his existing office, create a vacancy therein, or change his compensation.

No temporary assignment of any justice for service outside his judicial department shall be made unless a majority of the justices of the appellate division in his department consent thereto.

Certain obsolete provisions would also be eliminated from the constitution by this amendment.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number One

Shall the proposed amendment of article six, sections one, two and sixteen, of the constitution, and the addition of the proposed new sections fourteen-a and fifteen-a thereto, in relation to: (1) temporary assignment to the supreme court in counties within the city of New York of judges of the county courts within the city of New York, of judges of the court of general sessions of the county of New York, of justices of the city court of the city of New York; (2) temporary assignment to the county courts within the city of New York and to the court of general sessions of the county of New York, of justices of the court of special sessions of the city of New York; and (3) temporary assignment to the city court of the city of New York of justices of the municipal court of the city of New York and justices of the court of special sessions of the city of New York, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Two

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to increase the monetary civil jurisdiction of the county courts outside the city of New York from $3,000 to $6,000.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Two

Shall the proposed amendment to article six, section eleven, of the constitution, to increase the monetary jurisdiction of county courts outside the city of New York, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Three

The purposes and effects of this proposed amendment are:

1. To provide for the election of the governor and the lieutenant-governor jointly, by the casting by each voter of a single vote applicable to both offices. Presently a separate vote is cast for each of these offices.

2. To provide that there shall be no election of a comptroller or an attorney-general except at the time of electing a governor, vacancies in such offices to be filled as provided by the legislature.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Three

Shall the proposed amendment to article four, section one, of the constitution, in relation to the joint election of governor and lieutenant-governor, and to article five, section one, of the constitution, in relation to the election of comptroller and attorney-general and the filling of vacancies in such offices, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Four

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to provide that the legislature may authorize any county, city, town or village or any county or town on behalf of an improvement district to contract indebtedness to provide a supply of water, in excess of its own needs, for sale to any other public corporation or improvement district; authorize two or more public corporations and improvement districts to provide a common water supply; and authorize any such corporation, or any county or town on behalf of an improvement district, to contract joint indebtedness for such purpose or to contract indebtedness for specific proportions of the cost. Indebtedness so contracted shall be for a county, city, town or village purpose respectively, and excluded in ascertaining the power of such municipal corporation to contract indebtedness as otherwise limited by present constitutional provisions.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Four

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight of the constitution by the addition of the proposed new section two-a thereto, in relation to the powers of public corporations and improvement districts concerning the supply of water, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Five

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to fix the salary of the governor at not more than $50,000. The salary of the governor is presently fixed by constitutional provision at $25,000.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Five

Shall the proposed amendment of article four, section three, of the constitution, authorizing the legislature to fix the salary of the governor, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Six

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to fix the salary of the lieutenant-governor at not more than $20,000. The salary of the lieutenant-governor is presently fixed by constitutional provision at $10,000.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Six

Shall the proposed amendment of article four, section six, of the constitution, authorizing the legislature to fix the salary of the lieutenant-governor, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Seven

The purposes and effects of this proposed amendment are:

1. To exclude budget notes from the constitutional debt limit of counties, cities, towns, villages and school districts. Budget notes will continue to be payable within the constitutional tax limit where applicable.

2. To permit voters of a school district to increase the district's tax limit (by one quarter of one per centum) not more than once a year instead of not more than once in five years. The present maximum tax limit of two per centum is unchanged.

3. To rephrase Article VIII, Section 10-a, to make it clear that the section does not establish a contract between bondholders and municipalities regarding the application of revenues derived from a public improvement, and to eliminate the references therein to towns because the constitutional tax limit does not apply to towns.

Other proposed changes are principally for purposes of clarification.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Seven

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight, sections two, five, seven, ten and ten-a, of the constitution in relation to the power of counties, cities, towns, villages and certain school districts to contract indebtedness and to raise taxes upon real estate, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Eight

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to provide a new constitutional limitation upon the amount to be raised by the city of New York and the counties therein for city and county purposes by tax on real estate in any fiscal year, in addition to providing for the interest on and the principal of all indebtedness, of not to exceed a combined total of two and one-half per centum of the average full valuation of taxable real estate therein. Present constitutional provisions impose a limit of one and one-half per centum upon counties generally for county purposes which the legislature may increase to two per centum, and a limit of two per centum upon cities of 125,000 inhabitants or over generally for city purposes.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Eight

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight, section ten, of the constitution by the addition of the proposed new subparagraph (f) thereto, in relation to the power of the city of New York and the counties therein to raise taxes upon real estate, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Nine

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to revoke the existing authority of the legislature to provide for the use of part of the lands of the state constituting the forest preserve, for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs, to regulate the flow of streams. Under present provision the legislature may authorize the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. The constitution mandates that the state's forest preserve lands, with certain exceptions, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Nine

Shall the proposed amendment of article fourteen, section two, of the constitution, to prohibit the use of portions of the forest preserve for the construction of reservoirs to regulate the flow of streams, be approved?

Sees Flaw in Claims

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 27 (AP)—There's a man here named X Ray who sees a flaw in other claims to the title of "Nation's Smallest Mailman." X Ray—that's his real name—is 5-foot-2 and weighs only 112 pounds. Charlie Burton, a 63-year-old 115-pounder, retired from the postal service down in Orange, Tex., last week and there were claims he was the smallest letter carrier in the country. Ray, 56, and the father of seven children, was born in Asheville, N. C. The doctor who delivered him had the first X-ray machine in town. So his parents took a cue and named him X—X Ray.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Learn Finesse And Avoid Grief

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The finesse is a peculiar play: you spend half of your bridge career learning it, and the other half avoiding it. The beginner goes out of his way to take finesses; the expert goes to great trouble to avoid them.

In today's hand, for example, the slam seems to depend on a successful club fineese once it has been discovered that the diamonds are not 3-3. The average player would win the first trick with the ace of hearts, draw trumps, and perhaps even run an extra trump or two for good measure.

He would then try three rounds of diamonds, in the hope of setting up dummy's fourth diamond. When that hope failed, he would try the club finesse and loose his slam contract gracefully.

The expert would play the hand quite differently. After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts he draws only two rounds of trumps. Then he tries the three top diamonds.

When West is known to have the fourth diamond, the slam is ice cold. The correct play is to ruff dummy's queen of hearts, get back to dummy with a trump, and lead the last diamond from dummy.

South must not ruff dummy's last diamond. Instead, he discards the eight of clubs, allowing West to win the trick. If West returns a club, South gets a free finesse. If West returns a heart (the only other possibility), dummy ruffs while South discards the queen of clubs.

An early club finesse would be wrong even if the diamonds were switched so that East rather than West held the four diamonds. Upon discovering the diamond break on the third top diamond, South would lead the queen of hearts from dummy.

If East played low, (after all, the opening lead might conceivably be from king-jack-ten), South would throw the eight of clubs and catch West in an end-play.

Even if East were able to put up the king of hearts to thwart this end-play, South would not be beaten. He would ruff the king of hearts and get back to dummy with a trump in order to lead a club.

South would try to finesse the eight of clubs if East were foolish enough to play low. If successful, this play would catch West in the same end-play that we have been witnessing all along.

Only if all these plans failed would an expert South risk the finesse of the club queen.

Neat Halloween Treat For Taming Tricksters

It's almost time for spooks and witches to haunt your neighborhood again, so better be ready with treats for all the Halloween spirits that ring your doorbell next Saturday. Want to put smiles on the little faces behind those weird and fearsome masks? Treat your trick-happy visitors to some chewing gum. Sticks or packages of gum win youngsters' thanks instead of pranks. The cost is small and the treats are ready-wrapped for quick and easy handling. What's more, your parental neighbors will be thankful your treat was chewing gum because it's healthful, wholesome and won't overload goblins' tummies. A stop at your friendly merchant's display of chewing gum will prepare you for treating 'em right. That's the spirit!

Thyme, now used as a seasoning, was used by the ancient Greeks as incense in their temples.

Pursuant to the provisions of section seventy-two of the Election Law, the following Proposed Amendments to the Constitution numbers One to Nine inclusive, will be submitted to the voters of the State for approval at the General Election on November third, nineteen hundred and fifty-three.

THOMAS J. CURRAN,
Secretary of State.

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number One

The purposes and effects of this proposed amendment are:

1. To authorize the temporary assignment, upon an order of the majority of the justices of the appellate division of the supreme court in the judicial department to which the assignment is made, of a county judge of the counties of Bronx, Kings, Queens or Richmond, or a judge of the court of general sessions of the county of New York, or a justice of the city court of the city of New York, to hold a trial or special term of the supreme court in any county within the city of New York.

2. To authorize the temporary assignment, upon a similar order, of a justice of the court of special sessions of the city of New York, to hold a trial or special term of any county court within the city of New York or of the court of general sessions of the county of New York.

3. To authorize the temporary assignment, upon a similar order, of a justice of the court of special sessions of the city of New York or a justice of the municipal court of the city of New York, to hold a trial or special term of the city court of the city of New York.

No such temporary assignment of any judge or justice shall affect his existing office, create a vacancy therein, or change his compensation.

No temporary assignment of any justice for service outside his judicial department shall be made unless a majority of the justices of the appellate division in his department consent thereto.

Certain obsolete provisions would also be eliminated from the constitution by this amendment.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number One

Shall the proposed admendment of article six, sections one, two and sixteen, of the constitution, and the addition of the proposed new sections fourteen-a and fifteen-a thereto, in relation to: (1) temporary assignment to the supreme court in counties within the city of New York of judges of the county courts within the city of New York, of judges of the court of general sessions of the county of New York, of justices of the city court of the city of New York; (2) temporary assignment to the county courts within the city of New York and to the court of general sessions of the county of New York, of justices of the court of special sessions of the city of New York; and (3) temporary assignment to the city court of the city of New York of justices of the municipal court of the city of New York and justices of the court of special sessions of the city of New York, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Two

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to increase the monetary civil jurisdiction of the county courts outside the city of New York from $3,000 to $6,000.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Two

Shall the proposed amendment to article six, section eleven, of the constitution, to increase the monetary jurisdiction of county courts outside the city of New York, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Three

The purposes and effects of this proposed amendment are:

1. To provide for the election of the governor and the lieutenant-governor jointly, by the casting by each voter of a single vote applicable to both offices. Presently a separate vote is cast for each of these offices.

2. To provide that there shall be no election of a comptroller or an attorney-general except at the time of electing a governor, vacancies in such offices to be filled as provided by the legislature.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Three

Shall the proposed amendment to article four, section one, of the constitution, in relation to the joint election of governor and lieutenant-governor, and to article five, section one, of the constitution, in relation to the election of comptroller and attorney-general and the filling of vacancies in such offices, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Four

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to provide that the legislature may authorize any county, city, town or village or any county or town on behalf of an improvement district to contract indebtedness to provide a supply of water, in excess of its own needs, for sale to any other public corporation or improvement district; authorize two or more public corporations and improvement districts to provide a common water supply; and authorize any such corporation, or any county or town on behalf of an improvement district, to contract joint indebtedness for such purpose or to contract indebtedness for specific proportions of the cost. Indebtedness so contracted shall be for a county, city, town or village purpose respectively, and excluded in ascertaining the power of such municipal corporation to contract indebtedness as otherwise limited by present constitutional provisions.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Four

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight of the constitution by the addition of the proposed new section two-a thereto, in relation to the powers of public corporations and improvement districts concerning the supply of water, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Five

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to fix the salary of the governor at not more than $50,000. The salary of the governor is presently fixed by constitutional provision at $25,000.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Five

Shall the proposed amendment of article four, section three, of the constitution, authorizing the legislature to fix the salary of the governor, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Six

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to fix the salary of the lieutenant-governor at not more than $20,000. The salary of the lieutenant-governor is presently fixed by constitutional provision at $10,000.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Six

Shall the proposed amendment of article four, section six, of the constitution, authorizing the legislature to fix the salary of the lieutenant-governor, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Seven

The purposes and effects of this proposed amendment are:

1. To exclude budget notes from the constitutional debt limit of counties, cities, towns, villages and school districts. Budget notes will continue to be payable within the constitutional tax limit where applicable.

2. To permit voters of a school district to increase the district's tax limit (by one quarter of one per centum) not more than once a year instead of not more than once in five years. The present maximum tax limit of two per centum is unchanged.

3. To rephrase Article VIII, Section 10-a, to make it clear that the section does not establish a contract between bondholders and municipalities regarding the application of revenues derived from a public improvement, and to eliminate the references therein to towns because the constitutional tax limit does not apply to towns.

Other proposed changes are principally for purposes of clarification.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Seven

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight, sections two, five, seven, ten and ten-a, of the constitution in relation to the power of counties, cities, towns, villages and certain school districts to contract indebtedness and to raise taxes upon real estate, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Eight

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to provide a new constitutional limitation upon the amount to be raised by the city of New York and the counties therein for city and county purposes by tax on real estate in any fiscal year, in addition to providing for the interest on and the principal of all indebtedness, of not to exceed a combined total of two and one-half per centum of the average full valuation of taxable real estate therein. Present constitutional provisions impose a limit of one and one-half per centum upon counties generally for county purposes which the legislature may increase to two per centum, and a limit of two per centum upon cities of 125,000 inhabitants or over generally for city purposes.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Eight

Shall the proposed amendment of article eight, section ten, of the constitution by the addition of the proposed new subparagraph (f) thereto, in relation to the power of the city of New York and the counties therein to raise taxes upon real estate, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed Amendment Number Nine

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to revoke the existing authority of the legislature to provide for the use of part of the lands of the state constituting the forest preserve, for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs, to regulate the flow of streams. Under present provision the legislature may authorize the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. The constitution mandates that the state's forest preserve lands, with certain exceptions, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands.

Form of Submission of Proposed Amendment Number Nine

Shall the proposed amendment of article fourteen, section two, of the constitution, to prohibit the use of portions of the forest preserve for the construction of reservoirs to regulate the flow of streams, be approved?

Offer of Land Made For Fire District

The Malden advisory committee consists of Temporary Chairman Charles Teetsell, Secretary Robert Herb, Lawrence Carroll, Albert J. Cowein, Edward Kolls, William Campbell, Jerry Smith, Harold Bennett and James Maines. The West Camp group consists of the Rev. Henry Schumann, Bernard E. McCutcheon, Charles Daley, Harry Moose and Nelson Burhans. On January 1, 1928, the Mayor of the City of Kingston becomes a paid executive.

In view of this fact, it is essential that the Mayor devote his entire time to the job and not allow hangers-on to run the city.

Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey has publicly stated that if elected to the office of Mayor he will resign from all his present business connections and devote his entire time to the office.

This should be the case with any one who desires this position, but Mayor Dempsey's opponent has yet to state that he will give up his law practice and devote his entire time in the office.

THERE ARE MANY PUBLIC OFFICES open to a lawyer, such as corporation counsel, county attorney, district attorney, county judge, surrogate, justice of the supreme court—all offices that no one but a lawyer can hold.

WHEN IT COMES TO RUNNING A BIG CORPORATION LIKE THE CITY, IT NEEDS A BUSINESS MAN AND NOT A LAWYER, BUT ONE WHO HAS HAD A GREAT DEAL OF BIG BUSINESS EXPERIENCE. Such a man is Edgar J. Dempsey, who, if elected, will devote his entire time to the job.

In this he will be ably supported by C. Ray Everett, Alderman-at-large, who is fully able to act as mayor pro tem in the event of anything happening to the mayor.

On January 1, 1928, the Mayor of the City of Kingston becomes a paid executive.

In view of this fact, it is essential that the Mayor devote his entire time to the job and not allow hangers-on to run the city.

Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey has publicly stated that if elected to the office of Mayor he will resign from all his present business connections and devote his entire time to the office.

This should be the case with any one who desires this position, but Mayor Dempsey's opponent has yet to state that he will give up his law practice and devote his entire time in the office.

THERE ARE MANY PUBLIC OFFICES open to a lawyer, such as corporation counsel, county attorney, district attorney, county judge, surrogate, justice of the supreme court—all offices that no one but a lawyer can hold.

WHEN IT COMES TO RUNNING A BIG CORPORATION LIKE THE CITY, IT NEEDS A BUSINESS MAN AND NOT A LAWYER, BUT ONE WHO HAS HAD A GREAT DEAL OF BIG BUSINESS EXPERIENCE. Such a man is Edgar J. Dempsey, who, if elected, will devote his entire time to the job.

In this he will be ably supported by C. Ray Everett, Alderman-at-large, who is fully able to act as mayor pro tem in the event of anything happening to the mayor.

The Republican Candidate for Mayor Is a Lawyer!

Your choice is between a business man who will be a full time mayor and a lawyer who would be a part time mayor.

Steer Unhooked

Eminence, Mo. (AP)—A local farmer was nonplussed when he noted one of his whiteface steers was losing weight. He investigated. Seems the steer got mixed up with some fisherman's lost fishing plug in this prime small-mouth bass area. Hooks on the plug had firmly caught in the steer's jaw and tongue. Too painful for any eating or cud-chewing. Freed from the plug, the steer was able to end his involuntary fast.

A House Is a Home

By FRANK TRIPP

The Halloween season smoked out this learned opus on architecture. The connection will show up later. For the moment let's contrast the new and tiny with some of the weird and ponderous homes of the past.

The average man gives little thought to the structures that surround him, unless he's close to the building business or aware of the architectural changes taking place.

Mostly it has been a revolution in dwelling capacity and reclamation of monstrosities and store fronts into attractive facades after the modern mode.

With houses, the trend inside them has been back toward the simple and convenient homes of the early New Englanders, the Cape Cod cottage and such. Houses put up to live in as easily as the few comforts of that day permitted.

Prohibitive costs had lots to do with it but common sense played its part too. The result is a house that a woman can operate without help, and without drudgery.

NOTWITHSTANDING a best seller, "a house is a home" wherever feminine touches get in their lick, be it only a trailer.

However they were forced to it, people have come to see the folly and extravagance of twelve-foot ceilings, clammy parlors, empty guest chambers, sprawling dining rooms, acreage kitchens and bowling alley hallways.

Nevertheless it's hard to teach old dogs new tricks, and Fanny and I are going through a period of mental torture trying to convince ourselves that we could be content in one of the new and gloriously compact abodes; after years spent in vaster walled-in spaces, much of which are rarely visited by other than the vacuum cleaner and scrubbing brush.

"What'll we do with all of our stuff?" is a still unsolved problem. Though largely unnecessary to our lives, it has become a part of us, symbol of our happy lives and of our children. We have waited too long to be rid of it; sentiment overcomes reason.

THOUGHTS go back to a lovely homemaker who could pack in an hour and be off to another spot, there to turn any house into a cheerful home in another hour.

Mildred Madden used to say, "I can't be bothered and bogged down by possessions." I always admired her good sense, but went right on cluttering rooms, cellar and attic with unneeded relics, mementos and leftovers to be housed, kept clean, moved about —and for why?

Yet there they are and we've become slaves to useless things that would fill three of the cosy places we are thinking about—so guess we'll end up just thinking.

The most contented, foot-free folks in the world are those who haven't the room to load their lives with possessions to hold them captives in their later years. Take the advice of a victim—don't do it.

THE ROSE-TRELLISED cottage has become the envy of countless couples imprisoned with their outmoded belongings in rambling monuments to the colossal and fussy architecture of the Victorian era; houses which once rang with the laughter of children, now gone their way.

I turned to reading how architecture has affected the lives of succeeding generations, back to hundreds of years B. C. Scores of periods have their names. Each was modern in its day, and specimens of nearly all survive.

REGRETTABLY there is one type of architecture that the books ignore. It is the only one-volume library in the world. Millions of them still exist in America, recognizable by a crescent in the door, hinting descent from the Moors.

However remote, paths always lead to them, worn down by mail order fans who, on the whole, tear their way to the harness section by Halloween, just before the kids tip the "library" over on its back.

Poets wrote of them but prudes just whispered their initials—which didn't mean William the Conqueror; until a wag rescued them from back-yard obscurity and made them better known than the Taj Mahal or the Mosque of St. Sophia.

Vast Rail Improvement Program
Aids Farms on New York Central

1. BUMPER CROP OF BOXCARS! Nearly 19,000 new cars have joined New York Central's great grain-carrying fleet since 1945. That 83-million-dollar investment assures prompt movement of crops from farm to market. And it's just one way that Central's program of progress benefits farmers.

2. OPEN DOOR TO WORLD MARKETS. Central tracks link the farms of 11 states with the great ports handling 85% of U.S. Atlantic trade. And in recent years, New York Central has invested millions to improve its shipside facilities that include up-to-the-minute food-handling equipment.

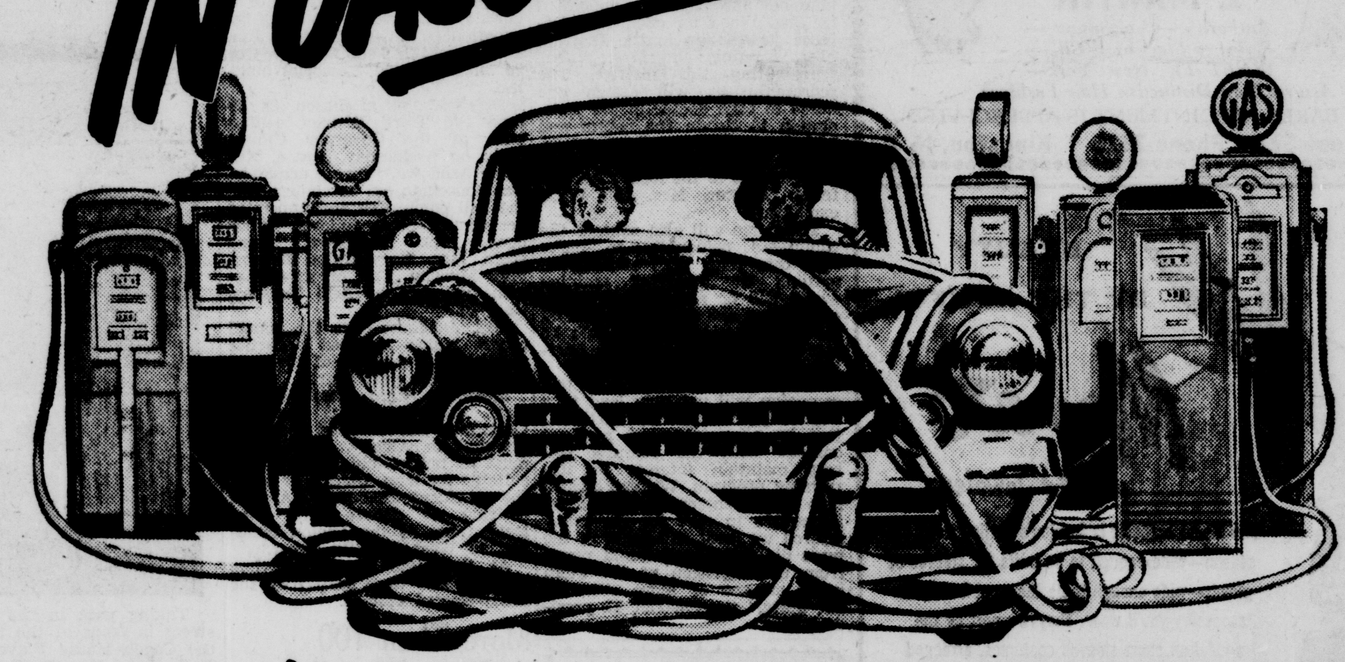

3. ALWAYS LOOKING AHEAD, New York Central Agricultural Department actively supports the 4-H Clubs. Also, it constantly seeks better ways to transport food. Ideas like the new, adjustable-deck livestock cars and super-low-temperature refrigerator cars now rolling on the Water Level Route.

4. IT'S A TWO-WAY JOB. In any weather, the year around, Central's great new locomotive fleet not only hauls food to market, it also speeds supplies and equipment to the farms. And it does both at an average of only 1.8¢ per ton per mile. For dependable, low-cost transportation is always the CENTRAL IDEA!

Vast Rail Improvement Program Aids Farms on New York Central

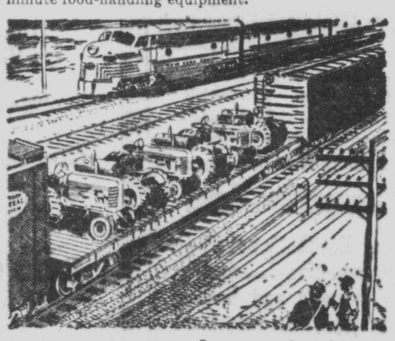

1. BUMPER CROP OF BOXCARS! Nearly 19,000 new cars have joined New York Central's great grain-carrying fleet since 1945. That 83-million-dollar investment assures prompt movement of crops from farm to market. And it's just one way that Central's program of progress benefits farmers.

2. OPEN DOOR TO WORLD MARKETS. Central tracks link the farms of 11 states with the great ports handling 85% of U.S. Atlantic trade. And in recent years, New York Central has invested millions to improve its shipside facilities that include up-to-the-minute food-handling equipment.

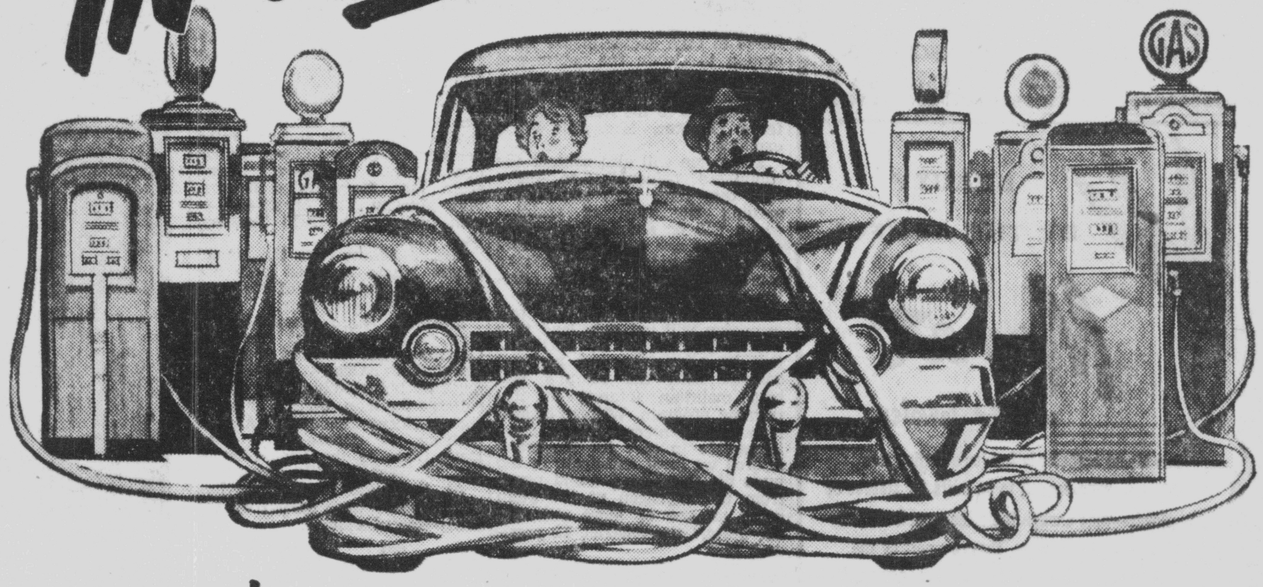

3. ALWAYS LOOKING AHEAD, New York Central Agricultural Department actively supports the 4-H Clubs. Also, it constantly seeks better ways to transport food. Ideas like the new, adjustable-deck livestock cars and superlow-temperature refrigerator cars now rolling on the Water Level Route.

4. IT'S A TWO-WAY JOB. In any weather, the year around, Central's great new locomotive fleet not only hauls food to market, it also speeds supplies and equipment to the farms. And it does both at an average of only 1½¢ per ton per mile. For dependable, low-cost transportation is always the CENTRAL IDEA!

Speaker Tells Club Of Indian Cultural Effect on Settlers

Atharhacton Club has announced that the subject of the year's study will be America's Cultural Heritage.

At the first meeting of the year held Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the home of Mrs. Henry Dunbar in Hurley, the subject of the talk by Mrs. Dunbar was American Indian, Highlights of their Civilization, Iroquois Confederation. Said Mrs. Dunbar, "We are studying the minor influences in the American culture, because they they are what makes it different from that of other English speaking peoples." She stressed the gifts from the native Indians, and their extensive knowledge of the mastery of nature that won the admiration of the early white settlers, profoundly influencing their own attitude toward the hardships they had to endure.

The speaker also described the maltreatment of the Indians by the white settlers until only warfare and extermination then finally deportation of the pitiful remnants to the lands of the West, "where they were soon engulfed by the invading settlers." She concluded, "It is a sorry history, but now at last we are revising the Indian laws and may hope that greater understanding will prevail in Washington, so the reservation Indians may live their own kind of life, and use the gifts they have given to us."

During the social hour, Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger poured.

Two Local Women To Help Recruitment For Medical Service

Miss Mary Keating, president of the Benedictine Hospital Alumnae Association and Mrs. Maria Wilber, president of the Kingston Hospital Alumnae Association, will represent District No. 11 of the New York State Nurses Association in the recruitment of medical aides for Civil Defense Emergency Medical Services.

The appointment was made by Mrs. Ella Wood, of Liberty, district president, who announced that the Association would join forces with the Ulster County Medical Society in the drive.

Under the State Medical Defense Plan, she noted, each County Medical Society will request each physician to recruit two volunteers who will be trained to assist doctors and nurses in giving life-saving first aid to the injured, directing the work of untrained volunteers, assisting in elementary medical and nursing care and doing the work which would be necessary in the organization and operation of aid stations and hospitals in the event of atomic attack.

According to the recruitment plan, one nurse has been appointed by Mrs. Wood for each Civil Defense jurisdiction in the District, Miss Keating and Mrs. Wilber representing this district. The representatives will assign one nurse to each doctor in the jurisdiction to obtain the names and addresses of the volunteers recruited by the doctor, and report these names to the local Civil Defense Director, Mrs. Ella Wood explained.

The nurse will also contact the volunteers personally to make sure they have been advised regarding the type of training which will be arranged for them and where and when the courses for medical aide training will be conducted in this area, the nursing leader noted.

"Assistance by nurses in this campaign will not only lead to a higher percentage of participation by physicians, but personal contact with the recruits will help maintain interest in this training program. Without trained help by volunteers, it would be impossible to care for the many injured we must anticipate in the mass disaster which would result from the explosion of the atom bomb on one or more cities of our state," the District 11 president said.

Skillypot Presents Entertaining Scene Of Kingston in 1910

Against a backdrop of a scene of Rondout, members of the First Dutch Church presented last night the original musical story by Charles Rinschler of the last voyage of the well-known Skillypot, the pre-bridge chain ferry.

With authentic costumes giving the flavor of the period, nostalgic references to events gave the audience the more humorous side of the era. Realistic effects were achieved with the sound of the engines starting up as the ship left the shore.

The musical selections, with original music by Don Romme and lyrics by Charles Rinschler, were all well presented. The first act duet between Warren Simmons as Joseph and Margaret Danford as Marie set a high vocal standard. The rousing All Aboard for Kingston, led by Joseph Flowers as the Captain of the Skillypot, was the finale of the first scene. Bob Browning, as the reporter, was the cause of much entertainment with his well-delivered references to the newspaper.

Acting the part of haughty Mrs. Van Aken of Rondout who looked down on the slow settlement of Kingston, Rowena DeWitt brought much vigor and humor to her role.

Using the plight of performers stranded as a result of a canceled engagement at the opera house, a show is presented aboard the vessel on its crossing. The Floradora Girls, direct from Paris, delighted the audience with their selection, The Fountain in Hasbrouck Park, acting out the words with appropriate gestures. The Betrothal Waltz, sung in the last scene of the play by a quartet composed of James Little, Beth Larsen, Warren Simmons and Margaret Danford plus the chorus, had an especially appealing melody. The audience greeted this selection with enthusiasm.

The Old Skillypot Blues, led by Joseph Flowers who presented a believable captain of the vessel, drew the voyage to a close.

The vocal treatment of all the songs was very pleasing to listen to, and was a credit to the able director, Don Romme.

The task of combining the music and story into a closely woven production was carried out under the capable guidance of Mrs. Arthur Oudemool. Settings were executed by Wes Hogan.

The play will be presented again this evening at 7:45 with an evening of light enjoyable entertainment in store for those who attend.

More than 1,500 species of fireflies are known to scientists.

Skillypot Presents Entertaining Scene Of Kingston in 1910

Against a backdrop of a scene of Rondout, members of the First Dutch Church presented last night the original musical story by Charles Rinschler of the last voyage of the well-known Skillypot, the pre-bridge chain ferry.

With authentic costumes giving the flavor of the period, nostalgic references to events gave the audience the more humorous side of the era. Realistic effects were achieved with the sound of the engines starting up as the ship left the shore.

The musical selections, with original music by Don Romme and lyrics by Charles Rinschler, were all well presented. The first act duet between Warren Simmons as Joseph and Margaret Danford as Marie set a high vocal standard. The rousing All Aboard for Kingston, led by Joseph Flowers as the Captain of the Skillypot, was the finale of the first scene. Bob Browning, as the reporter, was the cause of much entertainment with his well-delivered references to the newspaper.

Acting the part of haughty Mrs. Van Aken of Rondout who looked down on the slow settlement of Kingston, Rowena DeWitt brought much vigor and humor to her role.

Using the plight of performers stranded as a result of a canceled engagement at the opera house, a show is presented aboard the vessel on its crossing. The Floradora Girls, direct from Paris, delighted the audience with their selection, The Fountain in Hasbrouck Park, acting out the words with appropriate gestures. The Betrothal Waltz, sung in the last scene of the play by a quartet composed of James Little, Beth Larsen, Warren Simmons and Margaret Danford plus the chorus, had an especially appealing melody. The audience greeted this selection with enthusiasm.

The Old Skillypot Blues, led by Joseph Flowers who presented a believable captain of the vessel, drew the voyage to a close.

The vocal treatment of all the songs was very pleasing to listen to, and was a credit to the able director, Don Romme.

The task of combining the music and story into a closely woven production was carried out under the capable guidance of Mrs. Arthur Oudemool. Settings were executed by Wes Hogan.

The play will be presented again this evening at 7:45 with an evening of light enjoyable entertainment in store for those who attend.

Stephen Hyatt Cites Factors in Learning

At a meeting of the P-TA of School No. 6, Tuesday Oct. 20 with attorney Sherwood Davis, presiding, Stephen Hyatt, principal, was introduced and gave a most informative talk explaining some basic elements of education today, entitled Your School and What We are Trying to Do.

He said there are a number of causes which might affect a child's learning, four outstanding ones being physical handicaps, emotional upsets, social maladjustment, and fears of many kinds.

There are three things that he particularly asked parents to do to help their children and the school: Have faith in the school; don't criticize a child; establish a pattern of living and be consistent.

The meeting closed with the teachers meeting the parents each in his room.

Editorial Says

he neither offered Fay favors nor was requested to confer any, and Fay is still in prison. Meanwhile, the labor disputes were settled to the benefit of all concerned.

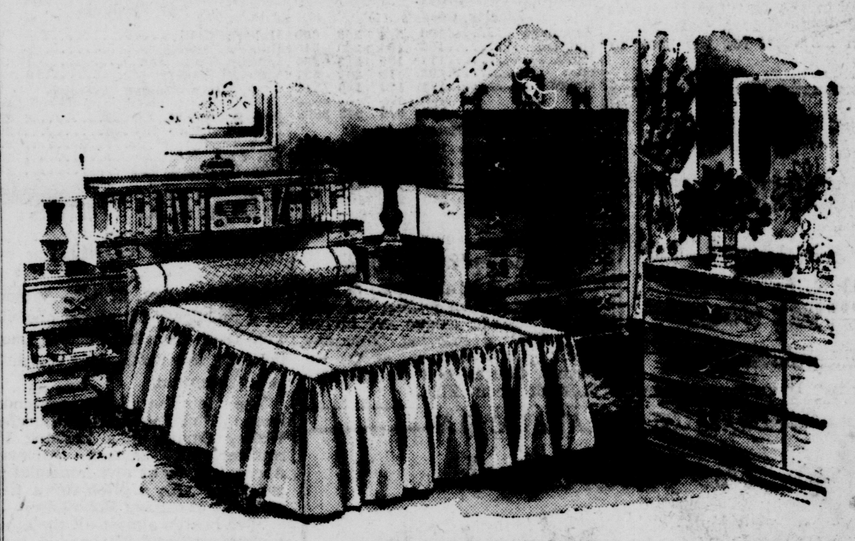

Senator Wicks made the further point that the labor movement has its own form of government. While we may question what kind of government it is that places so much power and trust in the hands of a convict, that does not minimize the fact that the power is there. Senator Wicks did not put it there. He merely dealt with it in much the same fashion that our government deals with other governments of whose philosophies it does not approve.

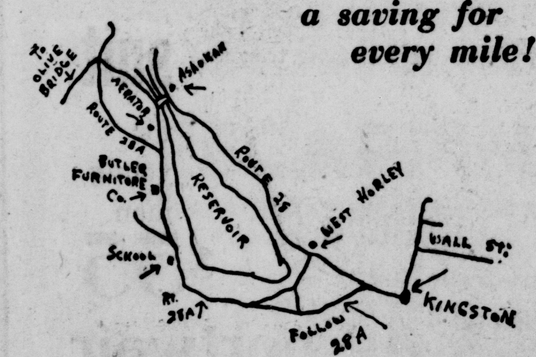

Under the circumstances outlined by Senator Wicks, it does not seem as though Governor Dewey has a case against him worth the political earthquake that is shaking the Republican Party and on which the governor may have staked his own political future. Therefore one must observe that only Senator Wicks' side of the case has been offered for judgment. The mystery of this affair has not been dissipated. It has been deepened.

Smith told newsmen the New York Grange was "solidly behind" U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. At a meeting of the P-TA of School No. 6, Tuesday Oct. 20 with attorney Sherwood Davis, presiding, Stephen Hyatt, principal, was introduced and gave a most informative talk explaining some basic elements of education today, entitled Your School and What We are Trying to Do.

He said there are a number of causes which might affect a child's learning, four outstanding ones being physical handicaps, emotional upsets, social maladjustment, and fears of many kinds.

There are three things that he particularly asked parents to do to help their children and the school: Have faith in the school; don't criticize a child; establish a pattern of living and be consistent.

The meeting closed with the teachers meeting the parents each in his room.

Editorial Says

he neither offered Fay favors nor was requested to confer any, and Fay is still in prison. Meanwhile, the labor disputes were settled to the benefit of all concerned.

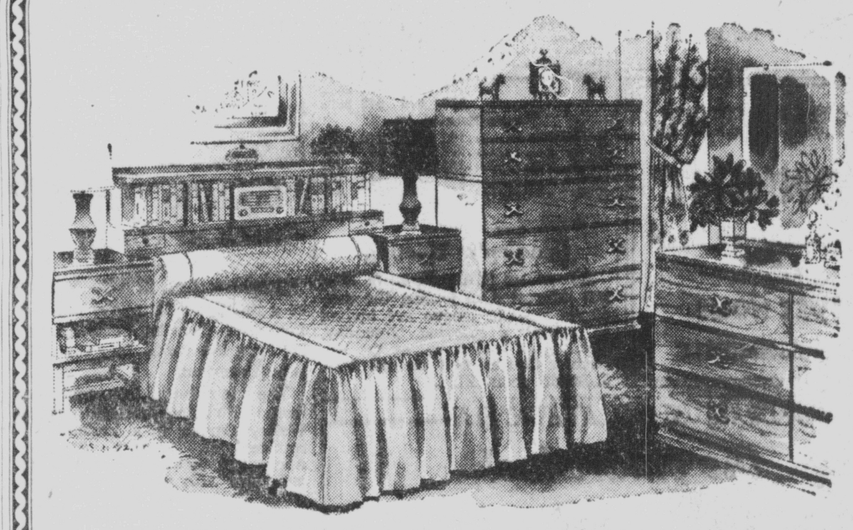

Senator Wicks made the further point that the labor movement has its own form of government. While we may question what kind of government it is that places so much power and trust in the hands of a convict, that does not minimize the fact that the power is there. Senator Wicks did not put it there. He merely dealt with it in much the same fashion that our government deals with other governments of whose philosophies it does not approve.

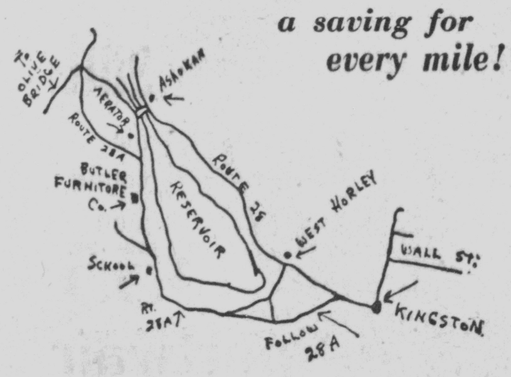

Under the circumstances outlined by Senator Wicks, it does not seem as though Governor Dewey has a case against him worth the political earthquake that is shaking the Republican Party and on which the governor may have staked his own political future. Therefore one must observe that only Senator Wicks' side of the case has been offered for judgment. The mystery of this affair has not been dissipated. It has been deepened.

Wrestling Show Cards Australian Tag Champs

Sharpe Brothers Due At Auditorium, Nov. 2

Professional wrestling returns to Kingston Monday night, Nov. 2, when Promoter Ted Bayly of Troy presents the world championship Australian tag team against two of the top names in the game today.

The headline match pairs the Sharpe brothers—Ben and Mike—against Wild Bill Melby and Billy Darnell, who are among the biggest TV attractions in solo competition.

The Sharpe brothers captured the title after a series of elimination bouts against the best wrestlers in the country.

Two weeks ago at the famed Marigold Garden in Chicago, the TV outlet for Saturday nights, they whipped Melby and Darnell in a sensational match.

Melby and Darnell are well known locally, having appeared in headline bouts at the municipal auditorium. The Nov. 2 clash gives them another shot at the title and promises to furnish heavy action for local fans.

The remainder of the card will be announced Thursday.

Deah, Deah, They Really Scalp Tix At Harvard Game

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 27—The Harvard Crimson, undergraduate daily newspaper, says it has received a letter from a graduate accusing a member of the Harvard football team's managerial staff of ticket scalping.

The paper said yesterday Neal C. Bringhurst of Harvard's 1951 class informed it that the undergraduate offered to sell two tickets to last Saturday's Harvard - Dartmouth game, valued at $3.60 each, for $11.

Bringhurst wrote that the manager of the managerial staff told him he was not alone among football managers "in the practice of scalping."

Athletic Director Thomas D. Bowles said the student is no longer a member of the football managerial staff.

The Crimson said no action has been taken yet against the student.

The Harvard-Dartmouth game drew a near capacity crowd of 34,000.

Giardello Wants Crack at Olson

Brooklyn, Oct. 27 (AP)—As soon as a middleweight scores one victory these days he starts clamoring for a title shot. Joey Giardello is no exception.

The fourth-ranking contender from Philadelphia outpunched Walter Cartier in a bruising 10-rounder at Eastern Parkway Arena last night and immediately cut loose with a pitch for a title crack at champion Bobo Olsen.

"I've beaten almost all the other contenders," said 23-year-old Joey, "and I want the chance bad. Why should Kid Gavilan get the next shot? I'll fight him for the right. Turpin, too. If it means getting a title fight with Olsen I'm willing to go to England and fight (Randy) Turpin for the chance."

Giardello based his claim on victories over Pierre Langlois, Joey Giambra and Ernie Durando, recent KO conqueror of Charley Humez. He didn't mention Johnny Saxton until it was brought up. Saxton, a welterweight contender, beat him in his fight previous to last night's scrap.

"I had to make 153 pounds for that one," said Giardello, who weighed 158½ to Cartier's 160. "That was too light for me."

It was a hard fought battle all the way with Giardello, a 9-5 faforite, finishing strong to earn the verdict.

The votes, all for Giardello, were referee Petey Scalzo, 5-4-1; judge Harold Barnes, 7-2-1, and judge Artie Schwartz, 8-1-1.

Shirai Retains Flyweight Title

Tokyo, Oct. 27 (AP)—World flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai tonight turned back the challenge of Terry Allen, a scrawny London cockney, in 15 dreary rounds that were heavy on clinches and light on action.

The decision was unanimous.

The referee scored the fight, in Japan's complicated system, 149-136 for Shirai. One judge had it 150-136, the other 150-130. The Associated Press scorecard gave Shirai nine rounds, Allen four and rated two even.

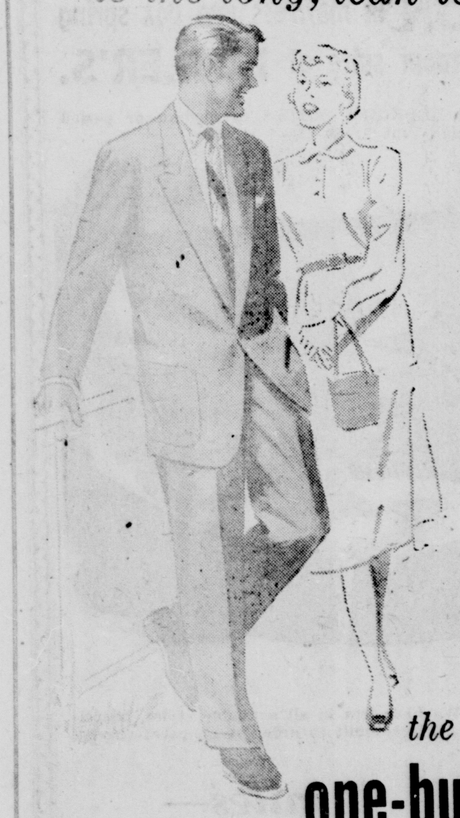

It was a dismal fight. Two more reluctant battlers probably never tangled for a world crown.

Until Shirai opened up in the last three rounds the crowd of 30,000 sat on their hands.

For the first 11 rounds the referee was the busiest man in the ring as he broke up a series of clutches between the fighters.

Early in the fight for the 112-pound crown Allen forced what action there was but Shirai landed the more solid blows. However, the champion seemed reluctant to follow up.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The argument about the merits of the one-platoon style of football is getting shopworn, but you can't resist remarking that Coach Red Blaik's copious tears about the evils of two-way football were somewhat thinned by Army's robust performances against Duke and Columbia.

If you were to believe the staid West Point mentor, young American manhood had deteriorated to a point where it was a serious risk of limb and wind to expose "the poor kids" to football as it was played in the days before the commercial hucksters took over the sport.

Amid the vale of tears shed by the opponents of one platoon football, Red Blaik stood out like a beacon light. Or should we say a raging torrent. But the results of the last two Cadet sallies on the gridiron make you recall that famous American concert classic "Oh, Dry Those Tears." Army football is back to stay and more Army wins (as they figure) the less you'll hear about the evils of one-man football. At least not from West Point where everyone must believe we are building the finest specimens of American manhood.

• Al Chase Doesn't Want Out:

The man who piloted Port Jervis High to its many brilliant football exploits refuses to be alarmed by recent talk that the Red and Black should drop out of the DUSO circuit.

Al Chase addresses his remarks to Port Jervis officials, the Board of Education and the whole community and blandly asks: "So you draw out of the DUSO, and where do you go from here?"

In order to create an eight-game schedule this year, Port Jervis had to book Oyster Bay, L. I.

Coach G. Warren Kias and Bill Burke of Kingston High must know how Chase feels on that score. The Maroons had to fight crosstown New York traffic for hours last Saturday in order to make the round trip to Valley Stream. They left about 8:45 a. m. and got back to Kingston about 10 p. m. In between the team took a terrific beating on a hot bus that was stalled by the numerous traffic delays.

What does that prove? Nothing except that high schools would rather book their games within a natural radius and stay out of the metropolitan district at any cost. Port Jervis, geographically in a somewhat awkward spot, could fill its schedule with schools from New York's southern tier counties and northern Pennsylvania. But the competition comes tough there . . . too tough for Port.

"Each year I've written nearly 100 letters asking for football games, and each year little or no return comes back to the high school offices," said Chase.

"Port Jervis would be right in the sewer when it comes to scheduling an eight-game football schedule without the DUSO," Chase admits. "We're too big for the little team and a shade too small for the big squads."

Chase also made an astute observation about another angle of the proposed withdrawal.

"If Port drew out of the DUSO football league, we'd lose the Middletown game on Thanksgiving Day. The Middies would then be in a four-team league (Middies, Kingston, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie), with the four teams pulling down the curtain on Thanksgiving Day."

Port's difficulty in scheduling area "B" schools is reflected in Chase's statement: "Teams we should be playing year in and year out won't play us. Goshen, Warwick, Liberty and Walden won't have any part of us anymore."

The veteran Port coach went on to point out that in a year when material is not up to the DUSO standard, things always look black.

"Athletics would drop to a pretty low calibre if we were to drop from the league," Chase concluded. "Port might look good playing some of the teams, but eventually the ball players would not be used to giving out as they are forced to do in the DUSO League. You can say for me that I, for one, am not in favor of Port's dropping out of the DUSO League. . . ."

Maryland Terps Rated Second Best in Nation

Notre Dame Holds Firm in 1st Place

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—If college football games always ran true to form, you could depend on the nation's 10 ranking teams to win in a breeze Saturday. For only top rated Notre Dame meets opposition voted among the first 20 in the weekly Associated Press poll.

But, because a football often bounces in unexpected directions (remember Purdue 6, Michigan State 0), some of the high and mighty of the gridiron ranks could well be toppled from their exalted positions.

And that goes twice for the Irish of Notre Dame, who meet Navy, rated 20th in the poll of the sports writers and sportscasters. Notre Dame, 27-14 conqueror of Georgia Tech last Saturday, received 1,122 points with 82 of the experts calling them the best team in the nation.

Tech Drops to 8th

Georgia Tech, its unbeaten string snapped at 31 games by Notre Dame, and Michigan State remained in the top ten but dropped several notches. And two other victims of last week's uprisings, Michigan and Navy, tumbled out of the select group. Their places were taken over by Southern California and UCLA.

Notre Dame, in first place ever since the writers and brpadcasters picked them as the most likely champion in the pre-season poll, completely dominated the poll. Unbeaten Maryland, which took over second place from Michigan State, received 18 first place votes and West Virginia was considered No. 1 by 15.

Baylor, also undefeated, and once tied Illinois followed Maryland in that order with West Virginia jumping from eighth to fifth after thumping VMI 52-20.

Spartans Rated Sixth

Michigan State's Spartans checked their decline at sixth place. Southern California took over seventh on the strength of a 32-20 thumping of California. Georgia Tech dropped from fourth to eighth while Oklahoma held firm in the ninth spot as UCLA moved into tenth—a spot vacated by Navy. Michigan ended up 16th.

The top ten (first place votes and team records in parentheses):

	Points
1. Notre Dame (82) (4-0)	1122
2. Maryland (18) (6-0)	1016
3. Baylor (2) (5-0)	748
4. Illinois (4-0-1)	691
5. West Virginia (15) (5-0)	452
6. Michigan State (4-1)	451
7. Southern California (5-0-1)	405
8. Georgia Tech (4-1-1)	376
9. Oklahoma (1) (3-1-1)	354
10. UCLA (1) (5-1)	235

The second ten: 11. Southern Methodist 119; 12. Rice 98; 13. Duke 88; 14. Minnesota 58; 15. Army 57; 16. Michigan (1) 50; 17. Stanford 44; 18. Mississippi 43; 19. Kentucky 42; 20. Navy 41.

Others receiving more than ten points were: Kansas State 28, Louisiana State 23, Utah 22, Mississippi Southern 15, Ohio State 14.

Grunenwald Blasts 668 For Top Tenpin Total

A man who can blow hot and cold on the polished lanes was slightly tepid in last night's Independent League action at the Central Recs.

Charlie Grunenwald, who holds the Hudson Valley League seasonal record of 743, fired games of 208, 246 and 214 to set a new league standard of 668.

Grunenwald's blast broke the old mark of 650 held by Frank Bruno.

Mildred Dunn compiled the best distaff total with a 527 series in the Matinee Club, while Rita La Rocca posted 513 in the Women's Major.

Bessie Lynn's 173 and Ann Mitchell's 447 were top marks in the Women's Junior Major, while Ed Ougheltree (204) and Ed Esposito (531) paced the male section of that league.

William Murray, the KBA president, took time out from his official duties long enough to spank a 605 series. Hank Grube's 235 was the best solo in that loop.

The results by leagues:

BYA Kegler Hits '100' Triplicate

Bowling triplicates (three of a kind) are not unusual, but the three consecutive games of "100" rolled by Cleo Rodden in yesterday's BYA League action represent a unique bit of firing. Although several local keglers, male and female, are credited with triplicates, Cleo's is the first in local tenpin history in which all games added up to 100 on the nose. She will be awarded a triplicate patch by the WIBC for her rare accomplishment.

Wrestling Show Cards Australian Tag Champs

Sharpe Brothers Due At Auditorium, Nov. 2

Professional wrestling returns to Kingston Monday night, Nov. 2, when Promoter Ted Bayly of Troy presents the world championship Australian tag team against two of the top names in the game today.

The headline match pairs the Sharpe brothers—Ben and Mike—against Wild Bill Melby and Billy Darnell, who are among the biggest TV attractions in solo competition.

The Sharpe brothers captured the title after a series of elimination bouts against the best wrestlers in the country.

Two weeks ago at the famed Marigold Garden in Chicago, the TV cameras, for Saturday nights, they wrapped Melby and Darnell in a two-out-of-three match.

Melby and Darnell are well known locally, having appeared in headline bouts at the municipal auditorium. The Nov. 2 clash gives them another shot at the title and promises to furnish heavy action for local fans.

The remainder of the card will be announced Thursday.

Deah, Deah, They Really Scalp Tix At Harvard Game

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 27—The Harvard Crimson, undergraduate daily newspaper, says it has received a letter from a graduate accusing a member of the Harvard football team's managerial staff of ticket scalping.

The paper said yesterday Neal C. Bringhurst of Harvard's 1951 class informed it that the undergraduate offered to sell two tickets to last Saturday's Harvard - Dartmouth game, valued at $3.60 each, for $11.

Bringhurst wrote that the manager of the managerial staff told him he was not alone among football managers "in the practice of scalping."

Athletic Director Thomas D. Bowles said the student is no longer a member of the football managerial staff.

The Crimson said no action has been taken yet against the student.

The Harvard-Dartmouth game drew a near capacity crowd of 34,000.

Giardello Wants Crack at Olson

Brooklyn, Oct. 27 (AP)—As soon as a middleweight scores one victory these days he starts clamoring for a title shot. Joey Giardello is no exception.

The fourth-ranking contender from Philadelphia outpunched Walter Cartier in a bruising 10-rounder at Eastern Parkway Arena last night and immediately cut loose with a pitch for a title crack at champion Bobo Olsen.

"I've beaten almost all the other contenders," said 23-year-old Joey, "and I want the chance bad. Why should Kid Gavilan get the next shot? I'll fight him for the right. Turpin, too. If it means getting a title fight with Olsen I'm willing to go to England and fight (Randy) Turpin for the chance."

Giardello based his claim on victories over Pierre Langlois, Joey Giambra and Ernie Durando, recent KO conqueror of Charley Humez. He didn't mention Johnny Saxton until it was brought up. Saxton, a welterweight contender, beat him in his fight previous to last night's scrap.

"I had to make 153 pounds for that one," said Giardello, who weighed 158½ to Cartier's 160. "That was too light for me."

It was a hard fought battle all the way with Giardello, a 9-5 faforite, finishing strong to earn the verdict.

The votes, all for Giardello, were referee Petey Scalzo, 5-4-1; judge Harold Barnes, 7-2-1, and judge Artie Schwartz, 8-1-1.

Shirai Retains Flyweight Title

Tokyo, Oct. 27 (AP)—World flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai tonight turned back the challenge of Terry Allen, a scrawny London cockney, in 15 dreary rounds that were heavy on clinches and light on action.

The decision was unanimous.

The referee scored the fight, in Japan's complicated system, 149-136 for Shirai. One judge had it 150-136, the other 150-130. The Associated Press scorecard gave Shirai nine rounds, Allen four and rated two even.

It was a dismal fight. Two more reluctant battlers probably never tangled for a world crown.

Until Shirai opened up in the last three rounds the crowd of 30,000 sat on their hands.

For the first 11 rounds the referee was the busiest man in the ring as he broke up a series of clutches between the fighters.

Early in the fight for the 112-pound crown Allen forced what action there was but Shirai landed the more solid blows. However, the champion seemed reluctant to follow up.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The argument about the merits of the one-platoon style of football is getting shopworn, but you can't resist remarking that Coach Red Blaik's copious tears about the evils of two-way football were somewhat thinned by Army's robust performances against Duke and Columbia.

If you were to believe the staid West Point mentor, young American manhood had deteriorated to a point where it was a serious risk of limb and wind to expose "the poor kids" to football as it was played in the days before the commercial hucksters took over the sport.

Amid the vale of tears shed by the opponents of one platoon football, Red Blaik stood out like a beacon light. Or should we say a raging torrent. But the results of the last two Cadet sallies on the gridiron make you recall that famous American concert classic "Oh, Dry Those Tears." Army football is back to stay and more Army wins (as they figure) the less you'll hear about the evils of one-man football. At least not from West Point where everyone must believe we are building the finest specimens of American manhood.

• Al Chase Doesn't Want Out:

The man who piloted Port Jervis High to its many brilliant football exploits refuses to be alarmed by recent talk that the Red and Black should drop out of the DUSO circuit.

Al Chase addresses his remarks to Port Jervis officials, the Board of Education and the whole community and blandly asks: "So you draw out of the DUSO, and where do you go from here?"

In order to create an eight-game schedule this year, Port Jervis had to book Oyster Bay, L. I.

Coach G. Warren Kias and Bill Burke of Kingston High must know how Chase feels on that score. The Maroons had to fight cross-town New York traffic for hours last Saturday in order to make the round trip to Valley Stream. They left about 8:45 a. m. and got back to Kingston about 10 p. m. In between the team took a terrific beating on a hot bus that was stalled by the numerous traffic delays.

What does that prove? Nothing except that high schools would rather book their games within a natural radius and stay out of the metropolitan district at any cost. Port Jervis, geographically in a somewhat awkward spot, could fill its schedule with schools from New York's southern tier counties and northern Pennsylvania. But the competition comes tough there . . . too tough for Port.

"Each year I've written nearly 100 letters asking for football games, and each year little or no return comes back to the high school offices," said Chase.

"Port Jervis would be right in the sewer when it comes to scheduling an eight-game football schedule without the DUSO," Chase admits. "We're too big for the little team and a shade too small for the big squads."

Chase also made an astute observation about another angle of the proposed withdrawal.

"If Port drew out of the DUSO football league, we'd lose the Middletown game on Thanksgiving Day. The Middies would then be in a four-team league (Middies, Kingston, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie), with the four teams pulling down the curtain on Thanksgiving Day."

Port's difficulty in scheduling area "B" schools is reflected in Chase's statement: "Teams we should be playing year in and year out won't play us. Goshen, Warwick, Liberty and Walden won't have any part of us anymore."

The veteran Port coach went on to point out that in a year when material is not up to the DUSO standard, things always look black.

"Athletics would drop to a pretty low calibre if we were to drop from the league," Chase concluded. "Port might look good playing some of the teams, but eventually the ball players would not be used to giving out as they are forced to do in the DUSO League. You can say for me that I, for one, am not in favor of Port's dropping out of the DUSO League. . . ."

Maryland Terps Rated Second Best in Nation

Notre Dame Holds Firm in 1st Place

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—If college football games always ran true to form, you could depend on the nation's 10 ranking teams to win in a breeze Saturday. For only top rated Notre Dame meets opposition voted among the first 20 in the weekly Associated Press poll.

But, because a football often bounces in unexpected directions (remember Purdue 6, Michigan State 0), some of the high and mighty of the gridiron ranks could well be toppled from their exalted positions.

And that goes twice for the Irish of Notre Dame, who meet Navy, rated 20th in the poll of the sports writers and sportscasters. Notre Dame, 27-14 conqueror of Georgia Tech last Saturday, received 1,122 points with 82 of the experts calling them the best team in the nation.

Tech Drops to 8th

Georgia Tech, its unbeaten string snapped at 31 games by Notre Dame, and Michigan State remained in the top ten but dropped several notches. And two other victims of last week's uprisings, Michigan and Navy, tumbled out of the select group. Their places were taken over by Southern California and UCLA.

Notre Dame, in first place ever since the writers and broadcasters picked them as the most likely champion in the pre-season poll, completely dominated the poll. Unbeaten Maryland, which took over second place from Michigan State, received 18 first place votes and West Virginia was considered No. 1 by 15.

Baylor, also undefeated, and once tied Illinois followed Maryland in that order with West Virginia jumping from eighth to fifth after thumping VMI 52-20.

Spartans Rated Sixth

Michigan State's Spartans checked their decline at sixth place. Southern California took over seventh on the strength of a 32-20 thumping of California. Georgia Tech dropped from fourth to eighth while Oklahoma held firm in the ninth spot as UCLA moved into tenth—a spot vacated by Navy. Michigan ended up 16th.

The top ten (first place votes and team records in parentheses):

	Points
1. Notre Dame (82) (4-0)	1122
2. Maryland (18) (6-0)	1016
3. Baylor (2) (5-0)	748
4. Illinois (4-0-1)	691
5. West Virginia (15) (5-0)	452
6. Michigan State (4-1)	451
7. Southern California (5-0-1)	405
8. Georgia Tech (4-1-1)	376
9. Oklahoma (1) (3-1-1)	354
10. UCLA (1) (5-1)	235

The second ten: 11. Southern Methodist 119; 12. Rice 98; 13. Duke 88; 14. Minnesota 58; 15. Army 57; 16. Michigan (1) 50; 17. Stanford 44; 18. Mississippi 43; 19. Kentucky 42; 20. Navy 41.

Others receiving more than ten points were: Kansas State 28, Louisiana State 23, Utah 22, Mississippi Southern 15, Ohio State 14.

Grunenwald Blasts 668 For Top Tenpin Total

A man who can blow hot and cold on the polished lanes was slightly tepid in last night's Independent League action at the Central Recs.

Charlie Grunenwald, who holds the Hudson Valley League seasonal record of 743, fired games of 208, 246 and 214 to set a new league standard of 668.

Grunenwald's blast broke the old mark of 650 held by Frank Bruno.

Louella Port Hits 423

The only "400" set in the BYA League was compiled by Louella Port who spliced games of 113, 185 and 124 for a 423 slam. Lillian Fromer cracked 396, Gen Whitmore 370, Betty Lindhurst 368, Joan Krueger 363 and Pauline Hutton 334. Team results: Split Queens 2, Alley Cats 1; Hits and Misses 2, Bowlerettes 1.

BYA Kegler Hits '100' Triplicate

Bowling triplicates (three of a kind) are not unusual, but the three consecutive games of "100" rolled by Cleo Rodden in yesterday's BYA League action represent a unique bit of firing. Although several local keglers, male and female, are credited with triplicates, Cleo's is the first in local tenpin history in which all games added up to 100 on the nose. She will be awarded a triplicate patch by the WIBC for her rare accomplishment.

By JOE STETSON

I judged a beagle bench match the other day and to say that it was very gratifying is putting it mildly. For the attitude of the breeders and exhibitors was so constructive and their desire to produce better looking dogs was so sincere that it was a pleasure to go over their exhibits.

There are some who maintain that a beagle doesn't have to be a good looking dog in order to run rabbits. The ideal is the dog that is a whiz-bang chaser and looks and sounds like a million while he's doing it.

To me, the most important part of this business of looking for good conformation in a rabbit hound is structure that makes it possible for a dog to run well and long with a minimum of energy and fatigue. A good looking shoulder is one which is set on the body properly so that movement is free and in line with the motion of the dog.

Shoulder Important

If the shoulder is wrong, the dog crosses in front of or paddles with loss of motion. If the shoulder is loaded (chest too broad and musculator too heavy) the action is stiff, the stride is shortened and the body may roll.

A slab sided dog lacks lung and heart space. Too much spring or rib or barrel may affect the movement of the shoulders and forelegs.

A back that is too long or so constructed that the arch of the loin is not "tied in" from the withers to the hindquarters is a handicap to the dog. I could go on and on with reference to nearly every conformation fault a dog might have.

In the case of the club holding this bench show, the members had been breeding their dogs for hunting purposes for many years. They suddenly realized that they had some pretty good running dogs but too many funny looking specimens.

They also realized that some of their dogs with good noses and voices and a desire to run were put together in such fashion that they tired easily. It suddenly became evident that there is a connection between conformation and performance and they decided to do something about it.

These breeders are out to accomplish something which should be the aim of every working breed. They intend selecting for the better looking, the better put-together dog, whenever they have a choice of two or more dogs with equal working ability.

Would Use Trolleys

Boston, Oct. 27 (AP)—A city councilman here proposes to use Boston's publicly-owned trolley car system for package delivery service to help business in down-down Boston, increase revenue on the deficit-ridden system and to help the shopper. The plan offered the council yesterday by William J. Foley, Jr., would work this way: Persons would come into town by trolley car to do their shopping. The store would give them a receipt and put the packages on trolley cars for delivery at the stop nearest their home. The shoppers then would ride home clear of bundles and pick up the packages with their receipts.

Major League's Defensive Aces

Ted Kluszewski

Gene Woodling

Kluszewski Woodling Repeat

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—First baseman Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Redlegs and outfielder Gene Woodling of the New York Yankees, a couple of defensive standouts for the past few seasons, were up to their old tricks again in 1953.

For the third straight year Kluszewski topped the National League first basemen in fielding with a .995 average. Associated Press statistics disclosed today that the husky southpaw made only seven errors in 1351 chances to better his .993 average of a year ago by two points.

Woodling maintained his supremacy by tying for the lead among American League outfielders with Chicago's Sam Mele, each at .996. In 1951 Woodling also shared the top spot, but he was the undisputed leader a year ago with .996.

Made One Error

The Yankee flychaser committed but one error in 247 chances this season. Mele, who was tied for second in 1952, made one miscue in 225 chances.

Shortstop Johnny Logan of Milwaukee was the only other National League repeater. Logan handled 796 chances with 20 errors for a pace-setting .975 mark. Last season he led with .972.

Second baseman Al (Red) Schoendienst of the Cardinals (.981) and third baseman Willie Jones of the Phils (.974) rounded out the National League defensive stalwarts. Both Schoendienst and Jones were runnersup last season.

Veteran Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals took fielding honors among the National League outfielders with a .996 average, followed by Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn and Brooklyn's Carl Furillo at .988 each. A year ago Slaughter finished fourth, Furillo sixth and Ashburn eighth.

Offer Chuck $2000 For 'That Letter'

Los Angeles, Oct. 27 (AP)—Former Brooklyn manager Charlie Dressen says he has been offered $2,000 for publication rights to the letter he sent Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers.

"But Ruth (his wife) and I are not going to sell," Dressen says. "If the letter is worth that much to somebody else for the world to read, it is worth 10 times that amount for us to keep."

Dressen refused a $40,000 one-year contract, demanding a three-year tenure. He will manage Oakland in the Pacific Coast League next season.

Tough Trading Policy Planned By Baltimore

Baltimore, Oct. 27 (AP)—American League owners are going to find that trading players with the Baltimore Orioles isn't going to to be like it was with the St. Louis Browns.

Every player from the old Browns is up for trade, but only if the deal will improve the Orioles, too. And cash isn't going to work as bait.

Art Ehlers explained his philosophy yesterday shortly after he made his own trade from general manager of the Philadelphia Athletics to the same job with his home town Orioles.

"If you're going to trade," he said, "trade anybody—no exceptions — if you're going to help yourself in a couple of positions. Not man for man. And in Baltimore's case, it won't be necessary to take cash. Also, if we want to buy somebody, we'll be able to do it."

Clarence W. Miles, head of the syndicate of money men who are paying $2,475,000 to buy the Browns, chimed in that anything Ehlers says about the baseball end is right.

"He'll have complete authority to run the ball club, just as long as he doesn't mortgage it," said Miles who announced that Ehlers had a three-year contract with a flat salary plus a bonus arrangement based on attendance.

Less Tie Games In Hockey Loop

Montreal, Oct. 27 (AP) — While Messrs. Dutch Reibel, Gordie Howe, boom-boom Geoffrion and Ted Lindsay continue their battle for the scoring lead, keep your fingers crossed and take a cautious peek at what's going on in the National Hockey League.

In the 4 games played so far this season there have been only three ties—1.5 per cent.

Going back to the corresponding Monday of last season, seven ties had turned up in 23 games. That's 30.4 per cent. The average slid off for the full 1952-53 season to 22.4 per cent.

A peculiar thing about the present scarcity of ties is that fewer goals have been scored than in the corresponding periods last season. In the 24 games to date 110 goals have been scored, an average of 4.6 per gome. Last year in the first 23 games there were 117 goals, an average of 5.09.

Disaster Threatens

Rome, Oct. 27 (AP) — A rising toll of disaster threatened flood-soaked Italy today as torrential rains continued unbroken into their fourth day. The number of known dead rose to at least 72. The province of Reggio Calabria, on the toe of the Italian boot, began burying its dead in sodden cemeteries. Villages of this area have counted 55 identified dead and fears have been expressed that the toll may rise to 100.

Washington Star Says Dewey Not To Run in 1954

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Evening Star said today Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York does not intend to run for re-election next year.

Dewey, twice the Republican nominee for president, is "determined to return to private law practice," the Star said in a dispatch from New York, written by Political Correspondent Gould Lincoln.

"His decision not to seek a fourth term at Albany is not an overnight decision," Lincoln wrote. "It was made a year or more ago—and he so informed his closest friends."

The story noted there have been predictions for months that Dewey would try for a fourth term, partly to keep himself available for a third presidential nomination in 1956 in the event President Eisenhower does not run for reelection.

Another Reason Cited

Lincoln wrote that another major reason cited for the belief Dewey would run again was that the Republicans want him "as the strongest and most available candidate on the issues of the 1954 campaign, some of them growing out of his own administration."

The Star said "the governor's decision not to run next year will have no lessening effect on his activities in office. He is going right ahead with his program for improvements and legislation. Also, he is not giving up the prominent part he plays in state and national politics."

The story commented that "Gov. Dewey's determination not to run will be welcome news to New York Democrats."

Relieves Blood Pressure

New York (AP) — High blood pressure was relieved in 17 out of 23 elderly men and women by a new drug, methium chloride, Drs. Henry A. Rafsky, Andrew Horonick and Jeanne C. Rafsky write in the Journal of the American Geriatric Society. The drug had few side effects, they said in a preliminary report.

EGG-CITEMENT BY THE PECK—Some baseball players have been accused of being "chicken" when they get up to the plate, but here's a batter who really is chicken. It's one of the ball-playing hens that are drawing crowds at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. Fair visitor Ponda Jansen looks on as the hen pecks at fake worm at the end of the bat. "Worm" is connected to electric trigger, which releases bat. A good, firm peck produces a base hit. This sets off another trigger that releases a portion of chicken feed at the other end of the pen. Hen strolls to feed trough, has her snack and returns for another time at bat.

Could Be Conference

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today there could well be a five-power conference to settle the future of Trieste before the United States and Britain withdraw their occupation troops. The sooner such a conferenec is held the better it will be for western defenses against communism in south Europe, Dulles told a news conference. The secretary said it would take considerable time for the 7,000 American and British troops to be pulled out of zone A. American and British diplomats are discussing, in London, he added, technical problems involved in the withdrawal.

BARREL FULL OF HEALTH—Swollen-bellied children in Haute Volta, West Africa, watch a DDT barrel being rolled into their village by members of the French Territorial Health Service. Malaria is one of the chief causes of infant mortality in the area, but the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund is aiding local health forces in an attempt to reduce rate of children's deaths.

No Pact Reached

tiations are expected to apply equally to the Fairfield companies.

While last night's bargaining talks continued, the head of the city's division of labor relations said unless negotiations end the strike at "some reasonable hour" today Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri may have to consider "other measures." The official, Daniel Kornblum, did not elaborate.

However, Kornblum indicated the deadline hour would be about 4 p. m., when processors normally start pasteurization of milk.

There was a report that Impellitteri's intervention in the dispute might take the form of a plea over the heads of the local union delegates to teamsters president Dave Beck.

Meanwhile, Robert Abelow, counsel for the companies, refused to comment on a report the dealers might ask President Eisenhowere to invoke the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and seek an 80-day no-strike injunction.

Things Desired

A $15-a-week age increase and a 35-hour work week instead of the present 40 hours are sought by the teamsters. They also want to overhaul work rules and other non-economic clauses in their old contract. The company representatives were reported offering package boosts of up to $2.10 an hour. The firms say current wages range from $82 a week for plant workers to $125 plus commissions for wholesale route salesmen.

Pickets were at most of the dairy plants in the area, which normally uses about 5¼ million quarts a day. Scattered incidents of violence were reported in northern New Jersey.

As dairymen sent their fluid milk to processing plants, where it could be made into cheese and other products, there were signs that both production and storage capacity were approaching their limits.

The huge Dairymen's League Co-Operative Assn., said it was opening manufacturing plants which are usually used only in the spring, when milk production is greatest.

Some dairy farmers were reported considering spilling their milk or feeding it to hogs.

About 50,000 farmers in the milkshed for the metropolitan area face, as a result of the strike, estimated losses of up to $250,000 a day—the difference between the price they receive for fluid milk and the lesser return on cheese and other products.

And They Get Rain

Rome, Oct. 27 (AP)—The promise of a warm and sunny Roman October persuaded 1,500 members of the American Society of Travel Agents to cross the Atlantic and hold their convention here starting last Sunday. It hasn't stopped raining since they hit town.

Wagner Move

he would appeal to the court to set up a special term to hear the arguments. Epstein said he wanted either Schirick, a Democrat, or Justice Kenneth MacAffer, a Republican, to hear them.

Epstein said if turned down here, he would ask the presiding justice, appellate division, to assign a justice to the case. As a last resort, the attorney said, he would appeal an adverse decision by the Supreme Court on a request for a special term to the appellate division.

"The case will be prosecuted to completion," Epstein stated, "whether before or after the (Nov. 3) election."

Wagner contends that a "national figure," whom he termed a close political associate of Gov. Dewey, urged parole for Fay. Both the parole board and Dewey have denied receiving an appeal from any such individual.

Goldstein's statement said Epstein sought to "compel the parole board to violate a rule of 77 years standing."

However, the attorney general declared, "I will not let Mr. Wagner escape having a hearing on his proceedings." Goldstein contended:

"Mr. Wagner brought his law suit before a court which cannot hear it. He did so, either intentionally to avoid a hearing, or in ignorance, which he refuses to admit. Mr. Wagner has apparently sought to delay this hearing until after election."

Epstein contended that a favorable ruling could be expected to bring disclosure of the names of those the attorney said had interceded successfully for Charles (Lucky) Luciano, deported vice overlord.

Dewey commuted Luciano's prison sentence to time served before turning him over to Federal authories for deportation to Italy. The state said this is a customary practice when a prisoner is to be deported.

Epstein said Luciano now was plying "a very profitable trade in some illegal products which are sold on the streets of the United States."

A reporter asked if he meant "dope". Epstein replied, "yes."

Jewelry Is Returned

Westport, Conn., Oct. 27 (AP)—Police reported today that with the exception of a ring and a bracelet, Mrs. Melen B. VanHorn's $30,000 collection of jewelry had returned to her as mysteriously as it disappeared seven months ago. Police Captain Edward Capasse announced that Mrs. VanHorn reported last night she had found the jewelry in a bedroom bureau drawer in the same purse in which she kept it when it disappeared March 27. It was not in the bureau drawer when she last had it open three weeks ago, she insisted.

Rainfall Begins

Albany, Oct. 27 (AP)—Light rain began falling in western New York shortly before noon today and the Weather Bureau predicted it would spread throughout the state by nightfall. But the bureau did not predict enough rain to warrant immediate reopening of the state's woodlands. Gov. Dewey on Saturday closed all woodlands and fields indefinitely as a precautionary move against forest fires. The Adirondack deer season was to have opened Sunday. The pheasant season was to have begun yesterday.

$7,500 Is Stolen

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Two men held up a Brooklyn Savings and Loan office today, stuffed $7,500 into a paper bag and fled in a green automobile. Employes of the Atlas Savings and Loan Association said the men cowed 7 employes and 10 patrons at gunpoint, then produced the bag and said: "Fill this up. We are not joking."

To Undergo Surgery

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean left by air today for Washington where he will undergo eye surgery later this week. After the operation, he said he hoped to take a rest, "play some golf and do a little fishing." He was given a city reception here yesterday.

Washington Star Says Dewey Not To Run in 1954

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Evening Star said today Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York does not intend to run for re-election next year.

Dewey, twice the Republican nominee for president, is "determined to return to private law practice," the Star said in a dispatch from New York, written by Political Correspondent Gould Lincoln.

"His decision not to seek a fourth term at Albany is not an overnight decision," Lincoln wrote. "It was made a year or more ago—and he so informed his closest friends."

The story noted there have been predictions for months that Dewey would try for a fourth term, partly to keep himself available for a third presidential nomination in 1956 in the event President Eisenhower does not run for reelection.

Another Reason Cited

Lincoln wrote that another major reason cited for the belief Dewey would run again was that the Republicans want him "as the strongest and most available candidate on the issues of the 1954 campaign, some of them growing out of his own administration."

The Star said "the governor's decision not to run next year will have no lessening effect on his activities in office. He is going right ahead with his program for improvements and legislation. Also, he is not giving up the prominent part he plays in state and national politics."

The story commented that "Gov. Dewey's determination not to run will be welcome news to New York Democrats."

Relieves Blood Pressure

New York (AP) — High blood pressure was relieved in 17 out of 23 elderly men and women by a new drug, methium chloride, Drs. Henry A. Rafsky, Andrew Horonick and Jeanne C. Rafsky write in the Journal of the American Geriatric Society. The drug had few side effects, they said in a preliminary report.

SLUMBER SONG—Looks as if they're singing a duet, but the young lady is asleep and the fish is beyond singing—if he ever could. Camera caught the odd twosome when the tired fisherwoman drowsed off while coming in with her catch from the waters off Greenport, Long Island.

EGG-CITEMENT BY THE PECK—Some baseball players have been accused of being "chicken" when they get up to the plate, but here's a batter who really is chicken. It's one of the ball-playing hens that are drawing crowds at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. Fair visitor Ponda Jansen looks on as the hen pecks at fake worm at the end of the bat. "Worm" is connected to electric trigger, which releases bat. A good, firm peck produces a base hit. This sets off another trigger that releases a portion of chicken feed at the other end of the pen. Hen strolls to feed trough, has her snack and returns for another time at bat.

Could Be Conference

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today there could well be a five-power conference to settle the future of Trieste before the United States and Britain withdraw their occupation troops. The sooner such a conference is held the better it will be for western defenses against communism in south Europe, Dulles told a news conference. The secretary said it would take considerable time for the 7,000 American and British troops to be pulled out of zone A. American and British diplomats are discussing, in London, he added, technical problems involved in the withdrawal.

Shortened

In hotel names, the word "Arms" is short for coat-of-arms, a heraldic device of a family. In England, the inn sign frequently was taken from the coat-of-arms of a nobleman or other prominent person who lived in the vicinity.

Save Those Stockings!

Yonkers, N. Y. (AP) — Shopping carts and folding baby carriages are now taboo on Yonkers bus lines. Bus officials said too many women were dragging them aboard—and snagging other women's hosiery.

NO VEST?—Dobbin isn't trying to be as funny as he looks. His Glendale, Calif., owner dolled him up with a pair of levis as protection against insects, following a leg injury.

LITTLE LIZ

A lot of the TV pitchmen seem to be trying to sell themselves rather than their sponsor's product.

BARREL FULL OF HEALTH—Swollen-bellied children in Haute Volta, West Africa, watch a DDT barrel being rolled into their village by members of the French Territorial Health Service. Malaria is one of the chief causes of infant mortality in the area, but the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund is aiding local health forces in an attempt to reduce rate of children's deaths.

No Pact Reached

tiations are expected to apply equally to the Fairfield companies.

While last night's bargaining talks continued, the head of the city's division of labor relations said unless negotiations end the strike at "some reasonable hour" today Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri may have to consider "other measures." The official, Daniel Kornblum, did not elaborate.

However, Kornblum indicated the deadline hour would be about 4 p. m., when processors normally start pasteurization of milk.

There was a report that Impellitteri's intervention in the dispute might take the form of a plea over the heads of the local union delegates to teamsters president Dave Beck.

Meanwhile, Robert Abelow, counsel for the companies, refused to comment on a report the dealers might ask President Eisenhowere to invoke the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and seek an 80-day no-strike injunction.

Things Desired

A $15-a-week age increase and a 35-hour work week instead of the present 40 hours are sought by the teamsters. They also want to overhaul work rules and other non-economic clauses in their old contract. The company representatives were reported offering package boosts of up to $2.10 an hour. The firms say current wages range from $82 a week for plant workers to $125 plus commissions for wholesale route salesmen.

Pickets were at most of the dairy plants in the area, which normally uses about 5¼ million quarts a day. Scattered incidents of violence were reported in northern New Jersey.

As dairymen sent their fluid milk to processing plants, where it could be made into cheese and other products, there were signs that both production and storage capacity were approaching their limits.

The huge Dairymen's League Co-Operative Assn., said it was opening manufacturing plants which are usually used only in the spring, when milk production is greatest.

Some dairy farmers were reported considering spilling their milk or feeding it to hogs.

About 50,000 farmers in the milkshed for the metropolitan area face, as a result of the strike, estimated losses of up to $250,000 a day—the difference between the price they receive for fluid milk and the lesser return on cheese and other products.

And They Get Rain

Rome, Oct. 27 (AP)—The promise of a warm and sunny Roman October persuaded 1,500 members of the American Society of Travel Agents to cross the Atlantic and hold their convention here starting last Sunday. It hasn't stopped raining since they hit town.

Wagner Move

he would appeal to the court to set up a special term to hear the arguments. Epstein said he wanted either Schirick, a Democrat, or Justice Kenneth MacAffer, a Republican, to hear them.

Epstein said if turned down here, he would ask the presiding justice, appellate division, to assign a justice to the case. As a last resort, the attorney said, he would appeal an adverse decision by the Supreme Court on a request for a special term to the appellate division.

"The case will be prosecuted to completion," Epstein stated, "whether before or after the (Nov. 3) election."

Wagner contends that a "national figure," whom he termed a close political associate of Gov. Dewey, urged parole for Fay. Both the parole board and Dewey have denied receiving an appeal from any such individual.

Goldstein's statement said Epstein sought to "compel the parole board to violate a rule of 77 years standing."

However, the attorney general declared, "I will not let Mr. Wagner escape having a hearing on his proceedings." Goldstein contended:

"Mr. Wagner brought his law suit before a court which cannot hear it. He did so, either intentionally to avoid a hearing, or in ignorance, which he refuses to admit. Mr. Wagner has apparently sought to delay this hearing until after election."

Epstein contended that a favorable ruling could be expected to bring disclosure of the names of those the attorney said had interceded successfully for Charles (Lucky) Luciano, deported vice overlord.

Dewey commuted Luciano's prison sentence to time served before turning him over to Federal authories for deportation to Italy. The state said this is a customary practice when a prisoner is to be deported.

Epstein said Luciano now was plying "a very profitable trade in some illegal products which are sold on the streets of the United States."

A reporter asked if he meant "dope". Epstein replied, "yes."

HOW ISRAELI-ARAB CRISIS GREW—Above Newsmap shows the places along the Israel-Jordan border where raids back and forth provoked the crisis now confronting the UN. It also shows other developments in the mounting tension. The U. S. sent Eric Johnston to the Middle East in an attempt to arrive at a solution satisfactory to both Israel and the Arabs. At the same time, the UN Security Council summoned Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike, of Denmark, chief UN truce supervisor, to present his "blueprint for security" in the Holy Land.

Nation's 27th Youngster Dies In Abandoned Refrigerator

Highland Falls, Oct. 27—The funeral of David Alan Bowdin, 4, the nation's 27th youngster to die in an abandoned refrigerator, were to be held here at 2 p. m. today.

Mrs. Harriet J. Bowdin, the boy's mother, missed him at 2 p. m., Saturday, and was horror-stricken about three hours later when she opened the door of the abandoned refrigerator in the yard of their Center street home and found her son curled up inside.

Sgt. Al Mastrogiovani, of West Point, and members of the Highland Falls Fire Department applied artificial respiration, but the boy was pronounced dead by Dr. A. H. Margolis, of Highland Falls, soon after the boy failed to show signs of reviving.

Police knocked the hinges off the refrigerator door. Mrs. Bowdin said it had been in the yard for two months. Her former husband, Benny F. Bowdin, she said, is overseas in the service. The oldest of four other children is 10.

CITY FARMER—He may be from the big city, but that doesn't detract from James Sarconi's pride as a farmer. The four-year-old boy beams as he struggles to lift a basket of sweet potatoes at the New York City Plant and Flower Guild Children's Garden. It was a bumper crop for the garden and youngsters like Jimmy helped in the harvest.

Liner Is Damaged

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth arrived today with a 20-foot gash on her starboard side, the result of being slammed against a concrete pier in Cherbourg, France, by a strong current. Commodore Harry Grattidge said cement patches had closed up the hole and that permanent repairs could wait until her annual overhaul in December. He estimated repairs would cost about 5,000 pounds ($14,000).

Learned Takes Post

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—A. Milton Learned, former newspaper editor, today took over the post of executive director of the Brooklyn Cancer Committee Inc., a division of the American Cancer Society. Learned formerly was editor of the Schenectady Union-Star. He left newspaper work to join the cancer society.

No Hope Is Seen

Panmunjom, Oct. 27 (AP) — Indian officers attached to the Korean Repatriation Commission said privately today there appears to be no hope of resuming on a large scale the interviews with anti-Red war prisoners who have refused to go home. The five-nation commission settled down to an almost "do nothing" routine—its only chore the care of 22,776 unrepatriated POWs in its custody today.

5. Egypt charges Israel violates neutral zone which was demilitarized by the UN.
6. Israel opposes U. S. plan to irrigate both sides of Jordan River; it would require modification of Israeli border so Tel Aviv government wouldn't be able to cut off Arabs' source of water.
7. American $100 million economic aid to Israel held up because Israeli government has refused to comply with a UN demand that it stop trying to divert water from the Jordan River along the Syrian border.
8. Israel charges the Arabs have waged illicit economic warfare, maintained a blockade of Israel and have spread propaganda against the new state.

HOW ISRAELI-ARAB CRISIS GREW—Above Newsmap shows the places along the Israel-Jordan border where raids back and forth provoked the crisis now confronting the UN. It also shows other developments in the mounting tension. The U. S. sent Eric Johnston to the Middle East in an attempt to arrive at a solution satisfactory to both Israel and the Arabs. At the same time, the UN Security Council summoned Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike, of Denmark, chief UN truce supervisor, to present his "blueprint for security" in the Holy Land.

Nation's 27th Youngster Dies In Abandoned Refrigerator

Highland Falls, Oct. 27—The funeral of David Alan Bowdin, 4, the nation's 27th youngster to die in an abandoned refrigerator, were to be held here at 2 p. m. today.

Mrs. Harriet J. Bowdin, the boy's mother, missed him at 2 p. m., Saturday, and was horror-stricken about three hours later when she opened the door of the abandoned refrigerator in the yard of their Center street home and found her son curled up inside.

Sgt. Al Mastrogiovani, of West Point, and members of the Highland Falls Fire Department applied artificial respiration, but the boy was pronounced dead by Dr. A. H. Margolis, of Highland Falls, soon after the boy failed to show signs of reviving.

Police knocked the hinges off the refrigerator door. Mrs. Bowdin said it had been in the yard for two months. Her former husband, Benny F. Bowdin, she said, is overseas in the service. The oldest of four other children is 10.

CITY FARMER—He may be from the big city, but that doesn't detract from James Sarconi's pride as a farmer. The four-year-old boy beams as he struggles to lift a basket of sweet potatoes at the New York City Plant and Flower Guild Children's Garden. It was a bumper crop for the garden and youngsters like Jimmy helped in the harvest.
